Kilauea's Turn Will Come.
Strange Things Men Do.
Ford Fears Golf.
One Modern Killing.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

KILAUEA, Hawaii, earth's biggest busy volcano, was in eruption yesterday, sending flames three hundred and fifty feet high from a pit 1,800 feet across.

IN THE ancient days the natives looked in horror at these eruptions, wondered what particular god had been offended, and who, if anybody, should be sacrificed to please that god.

And once upon a time inhabitants of all this earth looked up from under their shaggy eyebrows in superstitious terror at the flashing lightning.

Now they have that lightning busy, running vacuum cleaners, washing machines and electric fans.

SOME day every volcano will be put to work, its fury transformed to power.

The Italians are doing it already, on a small scale.

In years to come, before Kilauea fades out, its gigantic volcanic heat will be transformed into power, sent by wireless to airplanes flying overhead, on their way across the Pacific.

We, living, may not see that, but Kilauea will see it.

WHO can predict in this strange world what will happen: what unexpected things men will do? In Croatia, four bandits were sentenced to hang. The hangman lost his nerve, couldn't go on with his work. The man that was to die next put the rope on his own neck, touched the spring, went through the trap and was killed. Is that the height of callousness, courage or courtesy?

HENRY FORD, at work with Thomas A. Edison on automatic machinery for manufacturing automobile parts, says the automobile industry is cheerful, and he is turning out 7,000 cars a day.

He uses 800 men to make 840,000 automobile parts a day, and hopes to reduce the number.

FORD, like others, hopes that Lindbergh will stop flying and work on the ground. But Lindbergh smiles and hops off for a trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific, inspecting landing fields for the part rail, part airplane program of the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads.

FORD says golf is "causing more heart trouble than any other one thing."

Wall Street thinks that 12 per cent call money is worse than golf.

MR. FORD thinks "Americans are too well educated to participate in another war."

Archimedes was quite well educated. Ford would have liked him and his wonderful inventions as much as he likes Edison. But when the war and soldiers came along, education didn't save Archimedes from being knocked on the head.

MEN kill cold-bloodedly in our bandit-bootleg-prohibition age.

Bernard Levine, under-sized, 19 years old, was eating with friends in the "Pleasant Restaurant" at 2 in the morning, when a stranger said, "Come outside, I want to talk to you." Outside a cab was waiting: the stranger said, "We are going to take you for a ride."

THE doomed youth, who knew what that meant, pleaded, "For God's sake, give me a chance. I am only a kid."

Inside the cab someone laughed and gave the order, "Give him the works, the damned little rat." In a moment Levine was writhing on the sidewalk, a bullet in his spine. He was soon dead.

The police say Isidore Sanoff, arrested in bed, confessed the murder. His brother, Edward, drove the taxicab.

Unless they get a good lawyer, the killers may be punished.

PRESIDENT JOHN QUINCY ADAMS and John Adams, both Presidents of the United States, would read this paragraph with interest.

Charles Francis Adams, of Boston, great-grandson of John Quincy Adams, great-great-grandson of John Adams, is to be Mr. Hoover's Secretary of the Navy. So says Washington.

IT WOULD interest those old Presidents also to see the kind of Navy their descendant will manage for Mr Hoover.

They would be surprised to see gigantic floating forts of steel protected by submarines under the water and machines flying in the air above them.

SPECULATORS found that they could borrow money at 6 per cent again yesterday "on call." And when the Wall Streeter homeward plodded his weary way there were plus signs scattered all up and down the list of stocks. It's hard to convince the people that a nation with 100 billions a year income is really hard up.

Fight Taxes

LILLIAN GISH

DOROTHY GISH

GISHES SEEK TAX CUTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Lillian Gish and her sister, Dorothy Gish Rennie, motion picture actresses, who had contracts calling for combined salaries of more than $1,000,000 in 1924 and 1925, have appealed to the Board of Appeals to set aside the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that they must pay deficiencies in tax amounting to $61,483.

In her petition, Lillian Gish set forth that she signed a contract with the Metro-Goldwyn Corporation in 1925 which called for a total of $800,000 in two years at a rate of $7,692 a week. She assigned her contract to the Players, Inc., a Delaware corporation, for "valuable consideration," and to this corporation her employers paid $323,073.

In making her tax return, Miss Gish did not include the money called for in the contract, contending that she had not received the money.

Mrs. Rennie set forth that she had a contract with the Inspiration Pictures for 15 months at $1,500 to $2,500 a week and a share of the profits. She also assigned her salary to Players, Inc., which collected $43,500 in 1925. She did not include the amount in her income tax returns on the grounds that she had not received the money.

3 MORE IN RUM CASE GUILTY

The United States government scored a second victory in Federal Court today in its renewed attempt to prove that numerous liquor conspiracies dot the North Side.

This victory was a verdict of guilty obtained against the three Twenty-first Ward defendants—Daniel McLaughlin, Santo Laquatra and Jack Laquatra, charged with conspiring to violate the prohibition laws.

SEALED VERDICT RETURNED

It was a sealed verdict, returned by the jury yesterday after court had adjourned. Its contents revealed before Judge Nelson Mc Vicar, counsel for the convicted men—Attorney A. M. Oliver—immediately moved for a new trial.

This was the second triumph won by the government in four days. On Tuesday a jury convicted Fred Stratman and Oscar Reister as the rulers of rum-running in the Twenty-third Ward.

THIRD TRIAL STARTS

The government aimed at a third victory today in the trial of three members of an alleged whisky dispensary in the Twenty-fourth Ward.

Today's testimony included that of saloonkeepers and officers of the Troy Hill Leidertafel and German Beneficial Union No. 23, who told of buying liquor from Thomas C. Johnson, a defendant. The other defendants are Thomas F. Wills, chairman of the ward's Republican club, who took orders for liquor, two witnesses testified, and David J. Adams, who was identified today as the delivery man by Prohibition Agent Samuel D. Sysler.

The defense surprised observers

HOMESTEADERS PAY VOTE FINES

Five members of the election board of the Fourth district, Second Ward, Homestead, convicted January 22, 1929, of conspiracy and misdemeanors in connection with election irregularities, avoided jail sentences today by paying fines and costs aggregating $1,385.

The freed men include M. J. McDonough, Edward A. Hertz, P. J. Harrington, Edward Gillespie and Leo Sinconis.

At the time of their conviction Judge James B. Drew of Criminal Court sentenced them to 60 days in jail and fined them $200 each, with the condition that if the fines were paid within 30 days the sentence would be suspended. The probation office reported payment today.

On Trial

MAGISTRATE JOHN W. ORIE

ORIE ON TRIAL IN TAX CASE

John W. Orie, city police magistrate, was placed on trial in Federal Court today charged with evasion of income tax.

Orie is accused of failing to pay $8,416.81 in 1924 and $6,646.52 in 1925 as tax on $118,000.

On the same charge his brother, Stanley Orie, was scheduled for trial later today or tomorrow. He is charged with failing to pay tax totaling $6,234 on income amounting to $74,000 for the years 1926 and 1927.

The brothers were indicted as John Orzechowski and Stanley Orzechowski, alias Orie.

4-Week Special Term Of U. S. Court Called

United States Attorney John D. Meyer today announced that a special four-week term of Federal Court, beginning April 1, would be held in Pittsburgh to clear the docket of all undisposed cases including liquor prosecutions.

The special term will follow immediately the March term which opens March 18, in Erie. Several long trials, including that of Guy W. Brown, former state senator, convicted of embezzlement, and the rum ring conspiracy prosecutions, have delayed routine work of the courts, it was said.

Gang Chief Routs U. S. Rum Raiders

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Federal agents who raided the home of Joe Saitis here yesterday were routed when the gang chieftain appeared, pistol in hand, and ordered them from the place, but returned a few minutes later with police reinforcements and seized a quantity of liquor, 200 slot machines and two large automobiles. A man who gave his name as "Bates" claimed ownership of the contraband and was arrested.

35-Family Caravan Snowbound in West

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—A caravan of 23 big Keiser Transportation Company trucks which left Rawlins, Wyo., westbound for Rock Springs, Monday, and later were reported lost in a blizzard sweeping the continental divide, have been located at Table Rock, 55 miles east of here.

The stalled party consists of 35 men and their wives and children. A relief truck left here last night with provisions and bedding.

Borah Not Believed Cabinet Aspirant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Friends of Senator Borah, of Idaho, declared today he had eliminated himself from consideration as a member of the Hoover cabinet, but the Senator would make no comment on his long conference of last night with the President-elect. In his quest for an attorney general, it is known that Mr. Hoover turned to the Senator despite the latter's previous declination to be considered for secretary of state.

DEFICIENCY BILL CUTS DRY FUND

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The first deficiency bill was definitely abandoned today by the House Appropriations Committee as a result of the fight over the Harris amendment adding $24,000,000 to the prohibition enforcement fund.

All of the items of this bill, excepting the $24,000,000, were included in the second deficiency bill reported by the Appropriations Committee to the House today. The new measure will be open to similar amendment.

NEW DRY FUND

In the new deficiency bill the committee authorized Representative Wood (R.), Indiana, to offer an amendment on the House floor to provide $2,727,917 for prohibition.

That sum was recommended by President Coolidge after the treasury had estimated it could use $2,500,000 more at this time.

The amount would be allocated as follows: Department of Justice, $150,460; Prohibition Bureau, $1,719,654; Customs Bureau, $707,860; Civil Service Commission, $150,000.

The recommendation reached the committee too late to be included in the deficiency bill and the committee therefore authorized its acting chairman to offer the amendment when the House begins consideration of the measure.

CIVIL SERVICE FUND

The House committee provided $156,500 additional for the Civil Service Commission to speed the placing of the prohibition bureau under civil service rules. The committee overrode the budget, which recommended only $50,000.

The committee granted $144,000 asked by the Coast Guard for seaplanes, but did not provide additional agents for the customs service border patrol.

The measure carried $11,195,500 for public buildings. Changes from recommendations submitted by the Treasury two weeks ago include Altoona, Pa., $250,00 to $260,000.

Mt. Lebanon Man, 70, Dies Shoveling Snow

CITY WADES IN 5-INCH SNOW

Traffic was hampered and motorists impeded by the heavy fall of snow which covered Pittsburgh and its vicinity this morning, but brought with it the compensation of higher temperatures.

It was declared at the Pittsburgh Railways Company that street cars were running slightly behind schedule in the outskirts of the city, but that within the city no difficulties were experienced.

Railways sweepers, sent out early, cleared tracks before the rush of traffic began.

NEW RAID MADE IN EAST END

BULLETIN.

Continuing their campaign against alleged resorts said to draw their patronage largely from Peabody High School pupils, County Detectives Edward Frank, Samuel Whisner and Benjamin McWilliams late today raided the tea room of Mary Bella mat 128 Shetland avenue.

They seized three cases and a bushel basket of bottles of liquors, wines and champagnes and arrested the Bellamy woman on a charge of violating the Snyder act.

An immediate investigation of charges that liquor was sold to Peabody High School pupils, including girls, by proprietors of nine East Liberty stores and restaurants raided by county detectives Tuesday, was promised today by Dr. W. M. Davidson, superintendent of public education.

"This cannot be thought of in any other light than as a very, very serious matter," he declared.

INQUIRY LAUNCHED

F. L. Matteson, principal of the Peabody school, already has begun an inquiry into the charges.

Both Davidson and Matteson said the statement that Peabody pupils patronized bootleggers came as a complete surprise to them, as no complaint on the subject ever had come to them from parents or others who might be supposed to know of conditions.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner reported, however, having received such complaints from mothers of Peabody pupils, who had seen their children intoxicated.

DAVIDSON DUBIOUS

Dr. Davidson was loath to believe Peabody pupils bought liquor. He wondered, he said, if this might not be a revival of gossip about high school boys and girls that was circulated some years ago, not only in Pittsburgh, but in various other cities, by enemies of the public schools and of youth.

At that time, he said, he employed private detectives at his own expense to investigate the rumors. It was found that there was no truth in them, and the circulators of the scandalous stories had to take to cover, he said.

It is far from his intention, however, he said, to ignore the matter. On the contrary a sweeping and thorough inquiry will be made at once, he asserted.

Curtis Will Vacate Senate Seat March 3

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(INS.)—Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, vice president-elect, late yesterday announced his resignation from the Senate, of which he is Republican floor leader, to take effect March 3.

The announcement was made in a letter to Vice President Dawes. The formal resignation will be sent to the governor of Kansas. No successor has yet been named for Curtis' place in the Senate.

Heiress' Annulment From Policeman O. K.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—The decree annulling the marriage of Claire Suggs, Buffalo, N. Y., heiress, and Patrolman George Sylvester Vincent Wandling, often called the "Adonis of the police force," was sustained by the Court of Appeals. They were married in September, 1926.

WIDER STRAWBERRY WAY URGED AS TRAFFIC NEED

Further consideration of the proposal to widen Strawberry way has been demanded of the City Planning Committee by the Pittsburgh Better Traffic Committee.

The proposition which was rejected by the planners December 18, has been revived by joint efforts of representatives of the United States government and private property owners to provide better traffic facilities for the new Pittsburgh postoffice, the proposed Federal Reserve Bank, the Koppers Building and other improvements projected for the area of Seventh avenue and Grant street.

Declaring that the widening of Strawberry way offers the only remedy to save hopeless congestion, a special committee of the Better Traffic Committee, composed of Frank L. Duggan, chairman; S. M. Rust, W. H. Stevenson and A. W. Robertson, wrote to the City Planning Commission asking for the reopening of the case, it was revealed today. Plans for the proposed improvement give a wide thoroughfare from the Bigelow boulevard to Liberty avenue at Ninth street, which would connect with proposed cross routes to the Armstrong Tubes and the north approach to the Liberty Bridge.

"With every probable assurance of the Federal Reserve Bank to be erected on the old Grant School property and the enlargement of the plans for the postoffice building, we have some realization of the congestion which will occur unless the improvement is made," said Duggan.

WARD, BAKING MAGNATE, LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—William B. Ward, baking magnate and philanthropist, who once planned a $1,000,000,000 "merger with a soul," which would follow Biblical precepts by giving one-tenth of all profits to charity, left almost his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Ethel Haney Ward. Mr. Ward died three weeks ago from a heart attack.

The will was filed for probate today, making Mrs. Ward residuary legatee after payment of a few relatively small bequests. There were no bequests to charity, the testator stating in his will that ample provision for that had been made in his life time. There were no specific bequests for the five children, who range in age from 8 to 16.

While the estate was valued in the will at "over $20,000," the actual value of it is a matter of conjecture. It is known that Mr. Ward was insured for $2,000,000 in 1925 and in the past few years he gave several million dollars to charity.

Mr. Ward had long been a powerful figure in the baking industry, and in 1926 the gigantic merger of baking interests to be known as the Ward Food Products Corporation, was announced with Ward as president. Despite the statement by its sponsors that it was to be a "merger with a soul," and Mr. Ward's own plan to give a tithe of the profits to charity in Biblical fashion, the government considered the merger an illegal combination and blocked its completion.

SUPREME COURT LIKELY TO DISMISS COAL RATE CASE

OIL SCANDAL DENIED BY STEWART

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—"I never had anything to do with Teapot Dome leases."

Badgered at last into a formal denial of the charges brought against him by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is seeking to oust him as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Col. Robert W. Stewart replied to Rockefeller today.

Col. Stewart

Col. Stewart's denials are contained in an open letter to the stockholders of the company.

"It is distressing to one's sensibilities," the first paragraph of the letter reads, "to feel constrained to reply to such statements as have been published by Mr. Winthrop W. Aldrich and Mr. Ivy Lee, press agents for Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for more than a year, our company and myself have been libeled and pursued by a certain type of political self-seeker and certain newspapers which either had reasons of their own for their attitude or were too indolent to ascertain the truth. . . ."

CALLS ATTACK UNFAIR

Referring to a summary of the Rockefeller position in the dispute, issued last Sunday by Aldrich, Col. Stewart accuses him "of placing in circulation a grossly unfair deception—unfair because it was largely insinuation rather than accusation—a deception of omission as well as of statement."

"I cannot believe that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., ever gave his approval to the publication of such a slander," Col. Stewart declared.

"It is not only in its insinuations, however, that this Aldrich masterpiece is false. It is as false in its direct statements as in its insinuations."

Among the various "examples" given to illustrate this charge is the following:

"In the Aldrich letter, in an effort to reflect on my reason for not testifying in a case then pending in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, it is stated:

KEPT AT TRIALS

" 'Stewart never appeared as a witness in the trial of Sinclair.'

"Why didn't Mr. Aldrich tell you that I was under subpena to appear, and that I did appear for that trial, and that I was kept in Washington as a witness by the government throughout both trials—and that not until the trials were concluded did I know that the government attorneys would decide as a matter of strategy or because what I knew was not what they wanted me to testify, that they would not call me as a witness? . . . .

"By what right is a 'holier than thou' attitude assumed toward the more than 25,000 employes of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana who are solidly behind me; toward the great majority of the stockholders who are behind me; toward the members of the board of directors of this company who have known me for years, have worked with me for years and who have expressed without qualification or equivocation their confidence in me?"

FLAG CONTEST UNITS BEING FORMED

Boys and girls who are entering the United States Flag Association's contest are looking forward during the cold winter nights to the pleasures of that coveted trip around the world which constitutes the grand prize of the awards.

Many young contenders are absorbed in books of travel and they will be prepared to view intelligently the scenes in foreign lands when they make the trip.

Studying the history of the flag and reading books on travel make an ideal winter indoor pastime, and whether or not the boys and girls win the trip, they will have the advantage of patriotic study and the pleasure of reading fascinating travel stories. For those who do not make the globe-girdling tour, there is still a chance to attend the big meeting in Washington and visit the patriotic shrines in the Atlantic and New England states.

Contest units are rapidly being formed in this zone under direction of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, not only in the immediate Pittsburgh territory, but in surrounding counties of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, eastern and southern Ohio and eastern Kentucky. The winners of the zone contests get the trips to Washington where they will meet fellow contestants from all parts of the country.

AGREEMENT MAY KILL APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—During argument of counsel in the lake cargo coal cases yesterday the Supreme Court indicated it might dismiss the appeals of Northern railroads and coal operators and not pass upon the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to prohibit carriers from reducing rates on specific commodities.

CITE AGREEMENT

The court discovered during the course of the argument that recently the Northern and Southern carriers had agreed upon a coal rate differential of 35 cents in favor of the Northern fields and this was now in effect. Justice McReynolds and other members of the court at once stopped proceedings to inquire whether there remained any live controversy.

Counsel on both sides, however, urged the court not to dismiss the appeals simply because the competing railroads had settled their differences among themselves on the differential, but to pass on the important question of whether the Commission had the power to prevent the Southern carriers from cutting their rates on coal to meet the reduction made by the Northern railroads. They said that should the appeals be dismissed the present 35 cent differential undoubtedly would be challenged and the whole controversy renewed.

APPEAL DECISION

The case was brought to the Supreme Court on appeal from a decision of a statutory three-judge court at Charleston, W. Va., which set aside the Commission's order in refusing to permit the Southern carriers to make a 20 cent reduction in lake cargo rates.

Justice McReynolds, speaking for the court, stated that it seemed the appeals should be dismissed. Chief Justice Taft permitted the argument on the merits of the controversy to continue but declared that it must be distinctly understood the court reserved to itself the right to dismiss the appeals should it find that course proper.

NURSE IS FOURTH BRIDE OF MILLIONAIRE THORNE

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Gordon C. Thorne, son of one of the founders of Montgomery Ward & Co., had embarked today on his fourth marital venture in 10 years. The young millionaire, son of the late W. E. Thorne, married Mrs. Molin Bolin, a registered nurse, at Crown Point, Ind., yesterday.

Thorne and his wife became acquainted, friends said, when she was called into care for him during an attack of pneumonia last month. His third divorce, from Mrs. Ann Clore Thorne, was granted December 14.

Reports from Crown Point said that Thorne appeared extremely nervous when he got the license there yesterday. He wrote his name as Gordon Thornton before being corrected by his best man and also was said to have told of only two previous marriages and divorces, omitting the last.

Thorne gave his age as 36. His bride, whose home is Hammond, Ind., said she was 25.

Thorne and his first wife, Virginia Milliner, were divorced in 1921. His second marriage, with Mary McGinnis, was dissolved in 1925.

Week's Work Of Jury Held Illegal

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 21.—Charges of improper drawing of the Ohio County grand jury today resulted in adjournmeat of the jury and possible nullification of a week's work, including handing down 74 indictments against J. E. Moss, head of the J. E. Moss Iron Works, charged with embezzling $130,000 of the firm's funds.

Counsel for Moss contended the jury was drawn by the Circuit Court clerk instead of by a special jury commissioner, as required by law. Judge J. M. Ritz took under advisement resubmission of 240 cases already acted upon by the jury.

Today's Flagism

The dedication of the Washington Monument occurred on February 21, 1885, this structure representing the greatest pile of masonry ever constructed and being years in the process of erection. It is 555 feet high, and is but one of the many interesting things which the regional Flag Contest winners will see when they go to Washington as the guest of the Hearst Newspapers.

Pittsburgh Oil Man Dies in California

SOUTH PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 21.—Death last night ended the career of John Evans Davis, 61, who after 20 years as cashier in the Pittsburgh office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, went to California and accumulated a fortune as an oil operator. Davis died at his home in South Pasadena, Cal., after a brief illness. He was known as a brilliant operator in the Kern River oil field which he entered 18 years ago. Two sisters were with him at the time of death. Two brothers, F. R. and H. I. Davis, are in Pittsburgh.

this afternoon by resting its case after calling but one witness.

INDICTED, "SQUEALS"

R. M. Levay also was indicted in the Twenty-fourth Ward group, but he pleaded no defense and, yesterday, testifying for the government, told of selling "good stuff" to Johnson and hiring Adams to deliver it. Johnson's payments to him ranged from $500 to $300 weekly, Levay revealed.

There were other pleas of no-defense that helped the government win the convictions.

In the Twenty-first Ward group Eugene Cappi and Arnold Thornburg, pleading, testified for the prosecution and told of taking orders and delivering the stuff. One "Biff" Baer was to have stood trial in the Twenty-third Ward case, but he was never apprehended.

POLITICAL RING CHARGED

The government's prosecution, in each case, is much the same. Assistant United States Attorney Ralph Smith and Joseph E. Richardson charge that liquor concessions in old Allegheny are distributed by wards and often involve politicians.

Two more North Side groups remain to be tried—those in the Twenty-second and Twenty-seventh wards, and it was announced today that, because of the crowded calendar, their trials had been postponed to the special April court. Then the scene shifts to the South Side. From that section 35 persons, including police and politicians, must answer the conspiracy charge. Their trial is scheduled for next week.

floor, made desperate efforts to rescue them but without avail.

The five bodies were taken from the ruins.

An overheated furnace in the basement was believed to have set fire to woodwork, the blaze enveloping the house while all members of the family were asleep.

At the Berkey home at Hillsboro all members of the family were in the bedroom of the home. Zenas Berkey, father and husband, wearied from his day's toil in a nearby coal mine, was asleep in a chair. He was aroused by his wife, who smelled smoke.

FALLS IN YARD

Berkey opened the kitchen door to find the room ablaze. He dashed through the smoke and flame to seek aid, but collapsed on reaching the yard and was found unconscious later in the snow. He suffered severe burns on his face and hands.

Mrs. Berkey is believed to have tried to rescue her children when they were caught by the roof, which collapsed.

Mrs. Berkey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagle, living nearby, made futile efforts to rescue the mother and children.

abated this morning, and Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said little additional snow was expected today.

RAILROADS CLEAR

The Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and Baltimore and Ohio railroads announced this morning that the heavy snowfall had not impeded their traffic. The Pennsylvania reported having snow plows in operation through the Allegheny Mountains.

State Highway Department snow plows were out early on the main highways. Absence of high winds saved traffic from the impediment of drifts.

State Battles to Keep Drifting Roads Clear

HARRISBURG, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—With every available piece of snow removal machinery ordered on the job, the State Department of Highways today began its stiffest task of the winter to keep the roads of Pennsylvania open to traffic.

The heaviest fall occurred in Central Pennsylvania, where 10 counties reported snow as deep as 17 inches. Most of the other sections of the state, with the exception of the Connellsville-Uniontown route, were open with lighter falls ranging from 4 to 7 inches. The Connellsville road was closed by drifts and several plows were rushed there to clear the stretch.

In the northeastern section, the sub-zero temperatures with the thermometer at some places registering from 10 to 23 degrees below zero, added to the work of the road crews.

DETROIT, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Henry Ford has retired from farming. Encroachments on his model farm of 3,000 acres by the growth of the municipalities of Dearborn, Melvindale and River Rouge caused him to realize the impracticability of farming so close to Detroit and his farming implements were placed on sale at auction today.

Ford is to retain only 200 acres of land, just enough to provide feed for 100 head of thoroughbred cattle he owns. The remainder of the farm will be cut up and sold. The farm has been used for nearly 20 years for experimental purposes.

LUCY, ENGLISH BIG-GAME HUNTER, MAULED BY LION

NAIROBI, KENYA, British East Africa, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Jack Lucy, famous English hunter and widely known among Americans, is in a serious condition at a local hospital from a mauling by a lion.

Lucy, with Count and Countess Balbo on a hunting expedition in Kilimanueza, Tanganyika, was stalking through a donga when he walked right into a full-grown lion. The beast was of the black-maned variety, said to be the fiercest.

Lucy did not have the slightest chance for action as the lion sprang instantly and struck him down. It mauled him ferociously on his left side and probably would have killed him outright had not another member of the hunting party named Padlar arrived on the scene. The lion turned on Padlar but was shot dead at close range.

In 1927 Lucy returned to England with 280 lions as his total bag.

As the two girls reached the alley Johnson stepped to the running board of his automobile and fired a shot which hit Miss Campbell in the head. She fell to the sidewalk, dead. Ignoring Miss Coffman and a score of passers-by, Johnson fired four times into the prostrate girl's body. He then jumped into his machine and drove three blocks away, where he again stopped the car and fired a bullet into his temple. He died two hours later.

CONGRESS LIKELY TO DIE IN THROES OF FILIBUSTER

NAVY FUND BILL IN CENTER OF STORM

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Threats of filibusters against the administration's legislative program, stiff opposition to confirmation of presidential appointments and a growing enmity between the House and Senate today portended a tumultuous death for the seventieth Congress with but nine legislative days remaining before adjournment.

Senator Glass

Although Congress overwhelmingly authorized an increase of 15 fast cruisers and a giant aircraft carrier to the United States Navy, a battle loomed in the Senate against the Navy appropriation bill, carrying funds for the construction program.

PROGRAM MAY FAIL

Consideration of the bill has been blocked on two occasions and administration leaders may be forced to abandon temporarily their preferential program to enact the naval money bill.

An effort to limit debate on the Edge resolution, providing a survey of the proposed Nicaraguan Canal, also was blocked.

OTHER BILLS THREATENED

The status of other appropriation bills also alarmed administration leaders.

The indisposition of House conferees to permit a vote in the House on controversial matters in the first deficiency and interior bills has led to much bad feeling between the two branches of Congress.

The items provoking the greatest controversy were the $24,000,000 increase in dry funds, put in deficiency bill by the Senate, and a provision added to the interior bill by the House, giving the secretary of interior carte-blanche authority to condemn private lands in western parks. Neither item has ever been voted upon by the House.

HOUSE ALMOST FINISHED

The work of the House meanwhile appeared finished, except for enactment of the Jones bill, providing a new maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine for bootleggers and dry law violators.

The Senate had no such sinecure. Filibusters have been uncovered there against the Dill resolution, extending the life of the Federal Radio Commission for another year, and against the House reapportionment bill. A dozen other important measures await action.

The legislative situation was so cloudy it apparently will be a miracle if all the appropriation bills are enacted, without any other legislation, before the gavel sounds the death of Congress on March 4.

Printing Craftsmen Elect 1929 Officers

Mellor.

TALKS TO EDGE, WET LEADER IN SENATE

By GEORGE E. DURNO.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Reactions of the "Hoover curb market" indicated today that the President-elect is devoting considerable thought to the trying problem of prohibition.

The expression "curb market" is used advisedly in view of the fact the reporters assigned to Mr. Hoover are covering his activities from the chill of the curbstone that fronts his Washington residence.

Senator Edge

Senator Walter Edge (Rep.), of New Jersey, outstanding "wet" leader of the Senate, had breakfast at 2300 S street this morning.

DISCUSS COMMISSION

There was reason to believe the President-elect discussed with him the matter of assembling a non-partisan fact-finding commission immediately after March 4 to look into the causes back of the breakdown in prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Hoover has committed himself to the creation of such a body.

Nine men—or men and women—will make up the personnel of the Hoover fact-finding commission, representing between them all sections of the country.

Mr. Hoover would like to get somebody like Calvin Coolidge, the retiring President, to head this body. He would be eminently satisfactory to wets and drys alike.

NEW STIMSON RUMOR

Again, rumors were going the rounds that Henry L. Stimson, present governor general of the Philippines, was going to be attorney general in the Hoover cabinet, rather than secretary of state, as originally reported.

A third name thrown into the hopper in the last 24 hours was that of Owen J. Roberts, the Philadelphia lawyer, who has been the special prosecutor of the oil scandals.

Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles economist and banker, who is said to have declined several cabinet offers, talked with the President-elect today, giving rise to reports that he is reconsidering.

The principal caller in the afternoon was Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who is to continue in his post after March 4.

PECTIN SOUGHT IN LABORATORY

Pectin—that mysterious substance of the fruits without which there would be no jelly—is about to undergo a severe test in the chemical laboratories of the University of Pittsburgh.

Its chemical elements, unknown to science, are the subject of a series of experiments to be conducted by Catherine L. Mitchell, young woman chemist and teacher at the school.

While for hundreds of years, the woman in the home has known that pectin, the juice of the apple, lemon peel, or certain other fruits, would make jelly solid, none has discovered its constituent parts.

"With other members of the department," Miss Mitchell said, "I am trying to determine something of the true constitution of pectin—the jelly making part of fruit juices. I am using lemon peel as a source of material, which, after the removal of the lemon oils, consists of pectin and cellulose. The cellulose is easily removed, and then comes the job of drying to break down the pectin into its various component parts."

Olive McElroy and Genevieve Pierce, other graduate assistants at Pitt, are working, respectively, on the fat tissue of the liver, and the measurements of specific heats. They expect their experiments to last several years.

Lamp Chicago Cow Kicked Hangs In Paris Bar

PARIS, Feb. 21.—(INS.)—A lamp ranking in fame with Aladdin's and that of Diogones, has been located in Paris. It is the old style farm lantern alleged to have been upset by Mrs. O'Leary's well-known cow that started the Chicago fire.

Rejuvenated, it is now doing service in a side street bar room often referred to by the natives as "the Rue Daunou thirst emporium."

That the lamp is the real article rests established beyond a doubt in the mind of the owner, the saloon keeper. It was sold to him some years ago by a Chicagoan who had brought it to Paris straight from the Windy City, having acquired it some 20 years earlier at an auction sale.

GIFT TO WIDOW OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—A fight over whether Mrs. Pearl P. Oldfield, of Arkansas, successor to her husband, William A. Oldfield, the late Democratic whip in the House, shall receive the full $10,000 gratuity granted beneficiaries of deceased congressmen, has been waged in a House appropriations subcommittee and may be taken to the House floor.

Mrs. Oldfield

Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee, has served notice on its members that he will take the matter to the House floor if the attempt to curtail the gratuity is made in a general supply bill by deducting the salary paid to the late Representative Oldfield last year until November 3, 1928.

Mrs. Oldfield entered the House January 9 last and would receive about $1,524 in salary by March 4. Representative Byrns said he was willing for the amount paid Mrs. Oldfield as salary to be deducted from the gratuity, but he was opposed to the reduction of the amount paid her husband, because it would leave her but about $1,100 of the gratuity.

Had Mrs. Oldfield not succeeded her husband, Mr. Byrns said, she undoubtedly would have received the full $10,000 outright. As it is, she would lose an amount equal to her salary in Congress for filling out her husband's unexpired term. Because she did take office, Mr. Byrns said, was no basis for discrimination, because the gratuity was similar to insurance for the protection of House members and their families.

"SHREVEPORT ON THE AIR" BATTLES TO STAY THERE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 21.—William K. Henderson, owner, manager and announcer of KWKH, at Shreveport, La., who has made himself popular and unpopular with fans with his "Shreveport on the Air; Shreveport Everywhere" and his "Doan' Go 'Way World" announcements in the wee small hours, yesterday brought most of the political world with him when he appeared before the Federal Radio Commission to show cause why KVOO at Tulsa, Okla., should not have his wave assignment of 840 kilocycles.

When Henderson came into court he was followed by a king's train of lawyers, senators, representatives and whatnots, each laden with books and papers.

W. G. Skelly, operator of KVOO, wants Mr. Henderson's wavelength.

Henderson came into fame during the recent national campaign when he kept his station buzzing all night to aid the cause of Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee.

From the amount of letters and telegrams received from the Pittsburgh district and read over the air, it seems that folks in KDKA-land want his station to remain on the air.

Other broadcasters attach much significance to the case, as it is a legitimate application of the commission's ruling that one station has a right to demand the wavelength used by another station if it can prove that the public demands and needs will be served better with the new transfer.

AIMEE'S JUDGE IMPEACHED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Having voted to impeach Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, of Los Angeles, on charges of committing misdemeanors in office in connection with his activities in behalf of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, the California Assembly was expected to make plans today for conducting his trial.

Judge Hardy

The Assembly voted 57 to 18 to impeach the jurist yesterday, after receiving the recommendations of its committee which investigated Hardy's acceptance of $2,500 from Mrs. McPherson while her kidnaping story was under investigation by the Los Angeles district attorney's office. Asa Keyes, then district attorney, led a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice against the evangelist, but it was dismissed.

Newark Fire Chief Uses Shotgun To End Flames

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 21.—(INS.)—Deputy Fire Chief James Lynch today had proved his theory that the proper way to put out fires is to shoot them out with a shotgun.

The burning soot tumbled down and was smothered in itself. No water or chemicals were used. There was no damage to the chimney.

BYRD DISCOVERS NEW LAND AND NAMES IT FOR WIFE

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(INS.)—The New York Times, the St. Louis Post Dispatch and associated newspapers announced today that Commander Richard E. Byrd has made another extended flight with two planes over the Antarctic, in which he discovered and mapped much new territory.

The flight was made Monday. Commander Byrd claimed the newly-found land in the name of the United States and named it after his wife, Marie Byrd Land.

A second Antarctic mountain range was included in the discoveries, Commander Byrd reported, south of the range previously charted, and called Rockefeller range. Peaks from eight to 10 thousand feet high were sighted.

Marie Byrd Land lies between the Ross Sea and Graham Land. It appears from the air to be a larger territory than the Ross dependency, claimed by Great Britain.

Weather Conditions.

There was an unusually rapid change in pressure distribution during the last 24 hours. The high that produced the cold weather is now in the far Northeast. The Northwest low is centered north of Lake Superior and extends southward over the lakes. A low pressure area moved northeastward from the Gulf of Mexico and caused heavy rains over the Gulf states and heavy snow at more northerly points. Nashville reported 15 inches of snow; Elkins W. Va., 10 inches, and Harrisburg 11 inches. Over Western Pennsylvania the fall ranged from 3 to 12 inches.

High pressure developed over the Canadian Northwest, and is causing below-zero temperatures over that section again.

River Conditions.

The rivers are still stationary at low stages. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.8 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.6, and Dam No. 6, 8.0. The dams are up. Heavy snow fell over the entire district. There is now from 5 to 7 inches of snow on the ground over the upper Ohio basin; from 7 to 12 inches over the Monongahela, and from 6 to 10 inches over the Allegheny. The upper rivers are covered with moderately heavy ice.

FALSE RUMORS OF DRUGS WRECK MEDICAL CAREER

By JIM MITCHELL

Copyright, 1929, by Los Angeles Examiner

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—One physician, accused of a technical violation of the Harrison act, last November compromised his case with the government—sold his professional future in a suburban town for a mess of pottage. He had better, he declares now, have gone into the courts to fight the charges and accept any penalty imposed rather than attempt to hush up the matter.

He purchased a clean bill of health and secrecy from the Federal government at one of its bargain day sales.

His is but one of the 7,000 cases, the Examiner has learned, compromised by the government without public hearing during the last five years.

Compromise Backfires

But the compromise he effected backfired.

There was no open hearing and no publicity.

But the physician declares he has been practically ruined, financially and professionally, in his little country community because—

He never had a day in court.

He had no opportunity to defend himself.

His neighbors, his business and professional associates have had whispered to them a terribly contorted tale of the charges he faced.

They have heard the physician himself is a narcotic addict.

They never heard the real story of the doctor's "jam with the government."

By word of mouth, the tale was whispered that, "the law," was after the country doctor. His name is being withheld by the Examiner at his request in order that he will suffer no further injustice. With this condition imposed, he freely told all the facts in the case.

Investigators visited his offices several times and made inquiries at various drug stores. Local representatives of the law were called in on one occasion. The physician was compelled to make a couple of trips to Los Angeles.

That is all the villagers knew.

They put their own fantastic construction upon the facts.

And soon the word went about that the doctor, who had practiced in the community for 10 years and the three previous years in a nearby village, himself was a "hype."

Practice Falls Off

At the time the rumors began to spread, the doctor was employed by approximately 20 companies besides the little city itself, attending principally to accident cases.

Several of the companies dropped him from their payroll, and his private practice fell off accordingly.

His "cash and carry compromise" is delivering an endless number of patientless days to his office and sleepless nights to his home.

His was a case of a "technical violation," so the Department of Internal Revenue invoke "a purely revenue measure," the Harrison act, with which to punish him.

Federal investigators observed an unusually large number of prescriptions for narcotics dribbling into the drug stores of the doctor's village.

He does not admit that the number was unnecessarily large. He wrote many prescriptions, he says, because he frequently needed cocaine to aid him in dressing injuries received by the army of workmen for the companies that employed him.

The government charges that the physician wrote fake addresses upon some of the prescriptions.

He replies that when an injured man was brought to him for treatment he merely wrote the address given by the man or those who brought him.

The physician kept no duplicate copies of the prescriptions he wrote, the federal investigators declare.

The charge is true, the doctor admits.

He pleads ignorance of that clause in the law, recognizing, of course, that his ignorance is no defense.

He goes still further, and admits still more.

In all the 17 years he has been practicing medicine in California, he says, he had never made a copy of a narcotic prescription.

Federal investigators "moved in" on the country doctor last May.

When they came to his offices they had already visited the drug stores in the little town.

Upon a shelf in his office was a bottle of 25 or 35 cocaine tablets.

In his surgical case, he says, were two full tubes of morphine and a partly used one.

Narcotics Destroyed

He surrendered the narcotics to the investigators, who immediately destroyed them by emptying them into a wash basin.

After a lengthy questioning, the investigators ordered him to forward his narcotic order book and his government stamp to the collector of internal revenue in Los Angeles.

Both would be cancelled and returned to him, he says he was told.

Knowing what he knows now, the doctor says, he would have called in his attorney, but he dreaded the publicity.

Knowing what he knows now, he would have welcomed it.

The matter dragged along a few months until the physician says he was ordered to appear at the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

He was interviewed by a Federal official, he says, who told him that the government would consider a cash compromise offer.

The doctor was ignorant of such procedure, he declares.

"How much should I offer to pay," he asked.

"In my position," the Federal authority replied, the doctor says, "I cannot advise you how much to offer."

"How about $10?" the doctor suggested.

The Federal man deprecated it.

"I would suggest that you make it large enough so that it would be considered."

"Well, $25," the doctor said.

"Tut, tut," said the Federal authority. "Make it $200."

The country doctor readily consented to the suggestion of the Federal authority, who a few moments before had said he was not at liberty to suggest an amount.

And so, the physician says, the compromise was effected then and there.

He had no such sum of money with him, but he promised to send the federal man a check for the amount on the following day.

"Very well," was the reply, "Go downstairs to such and such an office and you will be given a new narcotic order book and a new stamp."

According to the doctor, the "cash and carry compromise" was arranged without any cash.

It was done on credit.

Sends $200 Check

The next day, however, he did forward a certified check for $200 to the collector of internal revenue in Los Angeles.

"I have no complaint to make," the doctor said yesterday, "with the manner in which the case was handled.

"I was guilty of a technical violation of the law and I paid for it.

"But, I was not guilty of the things that were charged outside the federal complaint.

"I am not guilty of the things that are being whispered here in town.

"I paid the government in cash.

"But I am still paying for other things in ways you cannot imagine."

"I recommend a Lucky in place of a sweet —when your figure must be considered"

Elsie de Wolfe

"I recommend a Lucky in place of a sweet. Toasting has taken out every bit of harshness in the Lucky Strike tobacco. All that remains is the splendid Lucky flavor—an excellent substitute when your appetite craves a sweet but your figure must be considered."

ELSIE DE WOLFE

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

HORNE'S 80TH ANNIVERSARY SALE BEGINS TOMORROW

THIS 80th Anniversary has called forth our supreme efforts.

More than a Million Dollars' worth of merchandise has been specially chosen for this event.

It is all New Spring Goods.

It is all typical of Horne Style and Quality.

It is all Wanted Merchandise of an especially desirable character.

It is all Specially Priced in a manner as extraordinary as the occasion itself.

There will be more than a thousand such items at your selection when the Sale opens tomorrow.

Every department will have its quota of these Anniversary offerings. You can go directly to the departments in which you are interested with reasonable assurance of finding most of your Spring wants anticipated in surprising and delightful fashion.

No list of offerings is necessary for the first day of the sale.

Past experience has taught people what to expect, and expectancy runs higher than ever, this 80th year—with good cause!

The Sale is strictly limited to six days. It positively closes February 28th.

Liberal quantities of all the Anniversary items have been provided; but the popularity of some offerings occasionally surpass our expectations. The earlier one can come, the surer one is of complete selections.

The Sale is primarily a good will occasion, different from other sales in the respect that it is planned without view to profit.

Through this wide distribution of selected Horne merchandise, throughout the community, thousands of people are given occasion to know this store and its merchandise better, and so the Anniversary Sale makes its definite contribution to the future growth of the business.

THE STORY of the Joseph Horne Co. is one of continuous progress, from the modest beginning of the single store room at 79 Market St., to the spacious modern buildings of today, covering a city block, and supplemented by the great Service-Warehouse Building, on the North Side, almost as large again.

The men who founded this store, and their successors who have carried it on, built strong. They have preferred that it should grow in the fashion of the oak rather than the mushroom. Yet in 80 years the store has grown to more than 70 times its original size.

The Joseph Horne Co. is a Pittsburgh owned, managed and operated institution. It has the advantage of knowing the wants of Pittsburgh, with an insight that only time and experience can impart; while through its foreign offices and world-wide contacts it has brought to its business, cosmopolitan and metropolitan points of view.

The business has continued throughout under the control of the founders, their sons and grandsons. This fact has given it an institutional quality possessed by few stores, and is responsible for the consistency of the policies, principles, and practices which the public so definitely associate with Horne's.

It has established a reputation for reliability in style and quality that has become its greatest asset. People say of this store: "If you want something good; if you want the assurance of satisfaction in your purchases, go to Horne's."

Pittsburgh shares a pride in the eminence achieved by this store, as one of the best stores of the country. The fact that Pittsburgh has produced such a store, is a tribute to the discrimination and substantial character of its citizens.

A GREATER HORNE'S Awaits You

DURING the past year, through the completion of the Service-Warehouse Building, North Side, illustrated at the right, we have been able to remove our delivery department, work-rooms, and stock-rooms from the store to the new building, permitting important enlargements and improvements in the store. The beauty and completeness of this modernized store has occasioned favorable comment from those who have seen it.

LAUDS HEARST CONTEST

FINDS LIQUOR ISSUE U.S. PUZZLE

Inez Haynes Irwin, of New York, humanist, novelist, O. Henry memorial prize winner and author of treatises on divorce and sociological topics, was asked yesterday for her views on prohibition and the Hearst temperance contest, which has fired imagination and stimulated thought from Maine to California on the problem of achieving temperance.

Mrs. Irwin, who is the wife of Will Irwin, veteran newspaperman, author and lecturer, replied by dictating the following:

"All people who are in the least familiar with the workings of prohibition must feel that it is a dreary failure. They must welcome any effort to find a sane and honest substitute for the present chimerical and ineffectual prohibition system, which fails to give us temperance.

"Mr. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 capital prize in his contest to find a wholesome substitute for this state of affairs is a most welcome stimulant to thought on the question. Prohibition as it now exists, or pretends to exist, is something every citizen should be thinking about.

"Prohibition is now on our law books. It should either be enforced or replaced by a regulation which can be enforced through being less drastic. Personally, I feel that prohibition cannot be enforced. Take all the revenue of the United States government and multiply it by ten and you still would not have sufficient funds to enforce prohibition.

"Here is something vital to think about. The more we study the problem the better. Mr. Hearst should be congratulated; he has set himself to the task of making the entire nation think and do something about it."

Mrs. Irwin's views are those of myriads of other men and women who have entered the $25,000 prize competition, or who have expressed their opinions on Mr. Hearst's offer of awards. Following are interviews with other persons of note:

Daniel T. McKelvey

Daniel T. McKelvey, president of the Pennsylvania Association of Chiefs of Police, Hazelton, Pa.:

"The members of our association agree that, since the beginning of prohibition, crime has greatly increased. When I say crime, I do not refer to petty offenses. I refer to heinous crimes that endanger the lives and property of ordinary citizens.

"Mr. Hearst, by his offer of a $25,000 prize, may not secure the plan that will take us out of this orgy of crime, but he will arouse the public to a serious study of this problem. Too many of us are apt to content ourselves with a spirited defense of the prohibition law or a denunciation that is just as spirited, without studying prohibition as a problem that must be faced if we want to rid our country and our state of this wave of crime.

"I hope the Hearst contest will result in a workable plan to substitute moderation for prohibition. I believe that the sale of wine and beer should be legalized. Whisky and allied liquors can be and have been abused, but I believe that it should be possible for a citizen to obtain whisky when necessary for medicinal purposes. The recent influenza epidemic has shown that whisky is needed—every physician I know has agreed to that. The government, however, should regulate its sale and use.

"I believe Mr. Hearst should be commended for his courage in bringing this problem to the attention of the public so that it can be studied by those who are not rabid wets or rabid drys, but interested only in the welfare and future of America."

Nancy Buckley

Nancy Buckley, poet, California:

"Mr. Hearst's idea of offering a $25,000 award for a practical temperance plan is a very splendid one, I think. Moreover, this is just the psychological moment for such action.

"We all agree that the Eighteenth Amendment hasn't worked out. There is more drinking now than there was 10 years ago. And discussion of the whole problem was never more widespread and general than just at present. So that, in offering this $25,000 award for a practical temperance plan at this particular time, Mr. Hearst is conferring a benefit on humanity, I believe.

"Because of the size of the award, many of the best minds of the country will get to work on the problem. And we must remember that when people put their ideas on paper, those ideas are always clarified.

"By inducing thousands of people to put their ideas about temperance and prohibition on paper, Mr. Hearst is bound to cause real constructive thought on the problem."

Judge R. B. Minor

Judge R. B. Minor, of the Fifty-seventh District Court, San Antonio, Tex.:

"Anything that opens the newspapers to a full and frank discussion of any social problem does some good. If the discussion is not candid, it is worth nothing. It must be free.

"Intemperance is a problem in America and its solution is something that is sincerely desired. The prohibitionists say that prohibition has met with substantial success. This is the question, has it?

"Surely the more argument, discussion on a subject, the more likely we are to reach the truth.

"Mr. Hearst presents the case of those opposed to prohibition with more clarity, more logic than anyone else whom I recall. I hope his contest does something to solve the problem of intemperance."

George J. Nier

George J. Nier, City Commissioner of Public Safety, Rochester, N. Y.:

"The Hearst offer provides a splendid opportunity for both the proponents and opponents of prohibition. Ever since the enactment of the Volstead act and its chief support, the Eighteenth Amendment, prohibition has meant nothing more than discussion. Its effect is questionable from every angle.

"The Hearst prize will give both sides a chance to submit their ideas to a tribunal, which in turn will give the country a new opportunity of judging the merits of prohibition, in other words, a new avenue is open for determining public sentiment, and perhaps of solving a most perplexing problem."

J. Charles Linthicum

J. Charles Linthicum, representative to Congress from Maryland:

"The situation under the present prohibition laws is bad and getting worse. There is more liquor consumed now than there was before prohibition.

"I am not in favor of the return of the old saloon, but I am in favor of real temperance. Prohibition never can give us that real temperance.

"Until the Eighteenth Amendment was passed we were making real progress in the effort to achieve real temperance.

"I am most heartily in favor of the Hearst plan to stimulate inquiry into a workable plan that would relieve present intolerable conditions."

3 SHIPS BURNED IN RIVER AT DETROIT

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Fire believed to have been started by the carelessly flicked cigaret butt last night burned two lake passenger ships and a steam tug to the water's edge and seriously damaged another excursion steamer with estimated damage of $250,000. The ships were tied up on the Detroit river at Ecorse.

The Sappho, a ferry boat, owned by the Nicholson Universal Steamship Company; the Erie, a steel ship, owned by the White Star Lines, the Dover, excursion vessel, and the tug, Annie Moiles, were the ships concerned.

Fire department officials said they believed the fire was started by a lookout for rum runners who had gone aboard one of the craft to watch for a signal from the Canadian shore.

Water Supply Low, Mine Town Suffers

BAYARD, W. Va., Feb. 21.—This mining town on the Western Maryland Railway and the Potomac River, is suffering from low water supply due to light rains and snowfall. Mines are pumping water from streams and the town water supply has been off for several days.

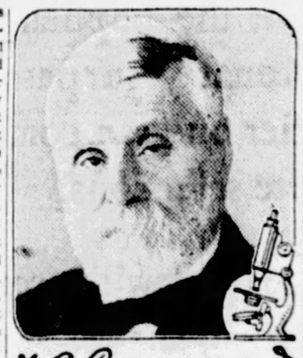
Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit-forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person.

Get a bottle today, at any drug store, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.



W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Rules of $25,000 Temperance Contest

THE purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

JUVENILE HOME GETS $12,000

Employes at the Juvenile Detention Home in Forbes street, who have been without pay since the first of the year, will be able to receive their salaries through a transfer of $12,000 from the general funds to the home, made by the County Commissioners.

William H. MacAfee, chairman of the board of directors of the home, has been making a survey of detention homes throughout the country. He talked with the commissioners yesterday about obtaining a new building and more playgrounds for the 75 children now in the home. He said that in addition to paying the salaries of employes and repairing the present home, part of the $12,000 will be used to hire a new superintendent, who is to help in drawing up plans for the proposed new home.

IT'S WONDERFUL FOR SUFFERERS

Is Tribute Pittsburgh Lady Pays Ten Herbs After It Restored Health.

"Wonderful"—that is the glowing tribute Mrs. Catherine Smith, 3408 Juliet Street, Pittsburgh, pays Ten Herbs, the new natural medicine, which is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh. But thousands of other persons throughout this section are equally as enthusiastic about this preparation. Many, surprised at the promptness with which it ended their stomach, liver, kidney or bowel trouble, ask: Whence comes the amazing power of Ten Herbs to banish ailments that have resisted many other medicines? The answer is simple: The ten wonderful herbal ingredients give this famous compound its exceptional merit, for they are cleverly and scientifically compounded in such a new and ingenious way that often the results Ten Herbs gives despairing sufferers is nothing short of sensational.

"Ten Herbs has made me feel like a new woman," said Mrs. Smith recently. "I am mighty glad to know that there is such a wonderful medicine for persons suffering like I was. I used to be terribly troubled with constipation—I would be two and three days getting relief, and I could hardly stand the pain. The lightest food would distress my stomach. Gas would form and I would bloat badly. Sometimes I had such severe dizzy spells and sick headaches that I could not do my housework. I was losing weight right along and really became alarmed at my condition.

"I had read and heard a great deal about Ten Herbs, and I knew what this medicine had done for some of my friends and others, so I decided to give it a trial. After taking three bottles, constipation has been ended—and I think that is just wonderful, considering what I have suffered. My appetite is fine, and I can eat almost anything without having distress afterwards. Dizzy spells and headaches are things of the past. My complexion has cleared up nicely. I sleep like a child, and get up full of energy in the morning. I am gaining weight. Friends are remarking about my improved condition, and I tell them what Ten Herbs has done for me and advise them to use this medicine."

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

Hot Tea Breaks a Cold

There's a certain kind of tea that breaks up a cold in quick time. It beats dosing yourself with all kinds of medicines. At the first sign of any chill or feverish feeling, get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Put a tablespoonful of this Hamburg Tea in a sieve, pour a cup of boiling water over it, and drink a cupful at any time. It heats the body, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold or case of grippe at once. Hamburg Breast Tea is inexpensive, and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

KONJOLA

The Konjola Man would be pleased to meet the users of the famous new compound, Konjola. Anyone who has obtained beneficial results may call at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street. A worthwhile message awaits you.

(Advertisement)

"KONJOLA FIRST MEDICINE THAT BENEFITED ME"

Happy Experience With New Remedy Is Described by Grateful Pittsburgh Man.

What happiness has Konjola brought into the world! What gladness it has put into the hearts of countless thousands who have found in this new medicine the first and only relief after years of seeking health so long denied them! How this super-compound of 32 ingredients works is being explained by the Konjola Man, who daily is meeting scores of sufferers at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's) Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, and pointing out to them the amazing record of success that Konjola has achieved wherever this astonishing remedy has been introduced. It is a remarkable fact that Konjola triumphs over those obstinate cases that have baffled everything else tried. This is so because Konjola attacks the disease at its source. It goes right after causes. Every ingredient of this super-compound has a mission to perform in clearing the system of poisons. Konjola paves the way for new, abundant and glorious health. Take, for instance, the case of Mr. Ulysse Grotticelli, 636 Boggs Avenue, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh. Mr. Grotticelli, who was assistant professor of chemistry at Naples, Italy, called on the Konjola Man and made this astounding statement:

MR. ULYSSE GROTTICELLI

"How I wish that all who are ill could know of Konjola. It was the first medicine that benefited me. I had been suffering from constipation for years and years. My food never digested right; it always fermented and formed gas which pressed against my heart, causing wild palpitation. I was unable to sleep good at night and was forced to rise several times because of bladder actions. This had been my condition for years and although I tried many medicines I failed to find one that reached the source of my troubles.

"The many recommendations that Konjola had been receiving in Pittsburgh convinced me that there was real merit to this medicine. Finally I made up my mind to find out what it would do for me. I bought just one bottle and was hardly prepared for the surprise it gave me. Before I had finished it I knew that, at last, I was on the road to health and traveling fast. My stomach was strengthened and cleansed; food digests perfectly and I have regular bowel movements daily. I can eat what I please without any distress afterward. I enjoy my work a great deal more and have greater energy and vigor. Words fail me when I tell what I think of this wonderful medicine."

So it goes; success after success when Konjola is given its chance. It is logical to believe that what this modern medicine did for Mr. Grotticelli it will do for all who suffer—and for you.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

AVIATION WEEK PROCLAIMED BY MAYOR

Mayor Charles H. Kline today proclaimed the week of March 9 to 16, during which Pittsburgh's first aircraft show will be held, as aviation week and called upon the city to extend a cordial welcome to visiting delegates. The show, to be held in Motor Square Garden under the auspices of the Aero Club, will draw representatives of the aviation industry from all parts of the country.

The Mayor, in his proclamation, said:

"As a matter of civic and industrial development, the citizens of Pittsburgh are anxious to encourage the location here of additional aviation interests, and the week of the aircraft show will be a most fitting occasion for calling the special attention of the general public of Pittsburgh to the remarkable strides being made in aeronautics, and to the urgency of co-operating as a community in order that Pittsburgh may maintain its place of leadership in the tremendous future expected of aviation."

How come Heart-Leaves don't bite your throat?

. . . this veteran of the tobacco fields explains it

"Uncle Peter" knows tobacco secrets from sixty years in the fields

HEART-LEAF quality throughout . . . in both Domestic and Imported Tobaccos

Eat a Chocolate, light an Old Gold . . . and enjoy both

"When Mother Nature rears up a tobacco plant with its big family of growing leaves, she gets like most mothers . . . a little bit partial.

"'Just look at those no 'count top-leaves,' she thinks, 'gummy and woody, no matter how much sun I give them. And look at the ground-leaves, they get frizzled and burnt by the sand, no matter how hard I try. But the heart-leaves grow silky-smooth, and bright as a ten dollar gold piece.'

"So, to the heart-leaves, Mother Nature gave the quality of making a thrilling, throat-easy smoke.

"OLD GOLD buys only the heart-leaf quality. Chooses only the golden beauties from the heart of the plant. I reckon that's why OLD GOLDS don't bite your throat. Why you can smoke them from sun-up to sun-down!"

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

Stop hacking Coughs that wrack your whole system

DOCTORS advise coughs should be checked quickly. They sap vitality—put a terrific strain upon the vital organs. A cough can wrack your whole body—tear at the delicate tissues of the throat—leave the muscles of your chest and stomach sore from sheer exertion. Your health demands that coughs be checked, before exhaustion or serious infection sets in.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on". It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary.

INTIMATE PAPERS OF COLONEL HOUSE

Wilson Friendly Towards German Folk; Against Imperial Regime

CHAPTER V.

FROM the moment in which the United States entered the war, President Wilson adopted the principle of undying hostility to the imperial regime and of friendship to the German people. "We have no quarrel," he said in his speech of April 2, 1917, "with the German people. We have no feeling towards them but one of sympathy and friendship." He hammered constantly upon the note that the war was one of liberation for Germany, and that the German people might have peace so soon as they renounced their "imperial masters." German leaders declared that his efforts to separate German people from German government were as useless as "biting on granite."

In the United States and in Entente countries there was bitter criticism of his attempt to exculpate the German people. Historians of the future will doubtless question the truth of his thesis that the German people had been dragged unwillingly by their chiefs into a course which they abhorred. Wilson's political justification lies in the fact that in the end, their resolutions worn away, the Germans adjured their old political system and surrendered upon the basis of his demands.

The policy of driving a wedge between government and people was nothing new. The Allies of 1814, in their invasion of France, began with a proclamation of unending war upon Napoleon and peace to the French people. During the World War the Germans themselves constantly attempted to stimulate Socialist feeling in the Entente countries against the government; Steed, of the Times, and others who understood conditions in the Central Empire insisted that the shortest way to winning the war was through effective encouragement of the disaffected subject nationalities of the Hapsburg Empire. The possibility of appealing to the German Social Democrats against Prussian imperialism had been suggested both in Great Britain and France. At the time of the Lusitania sinking, House wrote to the President proposing that in case of war with Germany, Wilson might, in his speeches, "exonerate the great body of German citizenship, stating that we were fighting for their deliverance as well as the deliverance of Europe."

This attitude Wilson maintained consistently throughout the war, and in the end it produced results. It was no pose upon his part. For German accomplishments and culture in the past he had high admiration; for the creed and methods of those whom he called the "military masters of Germany" he had nothing but hatred. Col. House was evidently of the same feeling. "If you could hear the stories these Americans bring back from the occupied portions of France and Belgium," he wrote the President on April 20, "you would feel that any sacrifice that America might make was well worth while in order to crush German militarism."

Internal Trouble

President Wilson, whose time and attention were naturally taken up with all the problems connected with placing the country upon a war footing, commissioned House to make a special study of the German situation and advise him as to the proper moment for a public statement of American policy and what lines it should follow. House was sent copies of all telegrams coming from Copenhagen and Berne, the two chief sources of information on Germany and Austria.

Symptoms of discontent were evident in the Central Powers. Austria was war-weary and had already started secret peace conversations; the Hapsburg monarchy faced the expressed discontent of her subject peoples, which threatened to become translated from debates in the recently convoked Reichsrath into open revolt, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Czernin, was anxiously searching out possible paths to peace and talked of liberal reforms. In Germany he found an ally in the restless intriguer, Erzberger, a clever albeit unstable figure, who promised that the Reichstag would fly the banner of democracy and peace in a revolt against the militarists and imperial bureaucrats. At no time were the latter in serious danger of losing control. Nevertheless it seemed to Col. House, who was kept well informed of the liberal ferment in Germany and of the increasing demand for peace, that the movement might well be fostered by help from outside.

"May 19, 1917: The cables coming for me through the State Department from our Minister at Copenhagen, which are parts of the diary, show that a large element in Germany is now working for democracy. If it is true, as these dispatches indicate, that Bernstorff is leading this movement, I have great hopes for its success, for Bernstorff is much cleverer than either the Chancellor or Zimmermann, who seem to be standing in the way. Bernstorff has been away from Germany long enough to catch the drift of world opinion, and he sees that eventually democracy must come to even autocratic Germany, and he evidently desires to become its sponsor and the recipient of its favor.

"My thought is to give the German liberals every possible encouragement so they can tell the German eople that here is your immediate chance for peace because the offer comes from your enemies, who will treat with you at any time you are in condition to express your thoughts through a representative government. On the other hand, the present government is offering you peace through conquest, which of necessity has in it all the elements of chance and cannot be relied upon.'"

House to the President

New York, May 30, 1917.

Dear Governor:

It is, I think, evident that the German military clique have no intention of making peace upon any other basis than that of conquest.

The Kaiser and his civil government are taking the gambler's chance. If they are able to hold what they have, then the German liberals can be defied, for the mass of the German people will be satisfied with the outcome of the war.

If, on the other hand, military reverses come, the Kaiser and his ministers will lean towards the liberals and give Germany a government responsive to the people. In the meantime, they will give no terms because they hope to hold what they have seized, and if their intentions were known, there would be near revolution in Germany because a majority of the people want peace even if it should be without conquest.

The pacifists in this country, in England and in Russia, are demanding a statement of terms by the Allies which shall declare against indemnities or territorial encroachments. They believe, and are being told, that Germany is willing for peace on these terms.

It seems to me important that the truth be brought out, so that every one, both in and out of Germany, may know what the issue is. I hope you will think it advisable to take some early occasion to do this. Unless you lead and direct the liberal Allied thought it will not be done.

Such utterances as those recently made by X and Y [British and French statesmen] play directly into the hands of the German imperialists. There seems to be no intelligent or co-ordinate direction of Allied policy. Imperial Germany should be broken down within as well as from without. The German liberals justly complain that they not only have had no help, but that their cause is constantly hurt by the statesmen and press of the Allied countries.

Affectionately yours,
E. M. HOUSE.

Wilson's Speech

Wilson responded enthusiastically, averring that House's letter "timed exactly" with his own thoughts. "I wish you would follow it up," he wrote, "with advice on these points:" When should he give the address? How could he express the point of view of the American government without seeming to contradict the British and French statesmen who made no distinction between German people and government? He added that he would like to say: in substance just what you say in your letter . . . You are in closer touch with what is being said than we are here and could form a much safer and surer judgement than I could on how the necessary things ought to be said.

To this Col. House replied, having his various talks with Drummond and Balfour in mind, that there would be no difficulty with the British. As to the date of delivery, he urged that it be at once.

Col. House did not see the President's speech before its delivery, which was given as planned, on Flag Day. Wilson wrote to him that he had been much delayed in getting at the composition of it and did not have a chance to let him see it beforehand: I do not think, he added, that it contains anything to which our associates in the war (so I will call them) could object. The sentence is important as containing an early, perhaps the first, use by Wilson of the phrase which described America's status, that of an "associated power," also because it indicates the President's appreciation of the delicacy of the problem of war aims in view of the aspirations of the Entente.

Both at home and in the Entente countries tremendous enthusiasm was evoked by the Flag Day speech. In it the President held closely to the two ideas which had been agreed upon in the Drummond memorandum: that we were fighting the existing German government and not the German people; that peace was impossible so long as that government remained in power. Wilson gave the speech, as he wrote to House, "in a downpour of rain to a patient audience standing in the wet under dripping umbrellas."

The speech concluded with the warning that a stable peace with the military group which controlled Germany and, for the moment, southeastern Europe, was out of the question. Peace offers from such a source could not be taken seriously. There followed the implication that with the overthrow of this group, the opportunity for peace might appear.

Insanity Cured, Man Faces 1916 Murder Charge

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 21.—A murder case 13 years old has just been set for trial in intermediate court here.

Upon motion of A. C. Schiffler, prosecuting attorney, Judge J. S. Ritz set Monday, March 11, as the trial date for Henry Able, who stands indicted on a charge of slaying his wife in their home here in June, 1916. Upon his capture and arraignment on the murder charge at the 1916 fall term of court, Able pleaded insanity.

The man's mental condition was made an issue in a hearing before a jury, which decided that he was insane at the time of the trial, but sane when he killed his wife. Judge Alan H. Robinson committed Able to the State Hospital for the Insane at Weston, from which he recently was discharged as cured.

TWO CONVICTED OF OPIUM SALE

Two Chinese laundrymen, Sam Wing, 45, of 1643 Fifth avenue, and Yee Lai, 40, of 2029 Fifth avenue, were convicted Wednesday in Federal Court of selling smoking opium. The former was found guilty by a jury that deliberated less than 20 minutes and Lai in the midst of a trial withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. They will be sentenced later.

The Chinamen were arrested December 10 in their laundries by government narcotic agents and city detectives. At the trials before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker the government used as evidence "marked money" found on the defendants, which had been tendered them by government agents in purchasing opium. In the prosecution of the suits the government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz.

Sunkist Serenaders

"Sunkist Serenaders," famous as Pacific Coast Radio Entertainers, are on the air over the Red Network of the National Broadcasting Company every Wednesday evening at the hour specified below. Make this time a date! Be certain to listen-in on any of the following stations each Wednesday evening at the hour given:

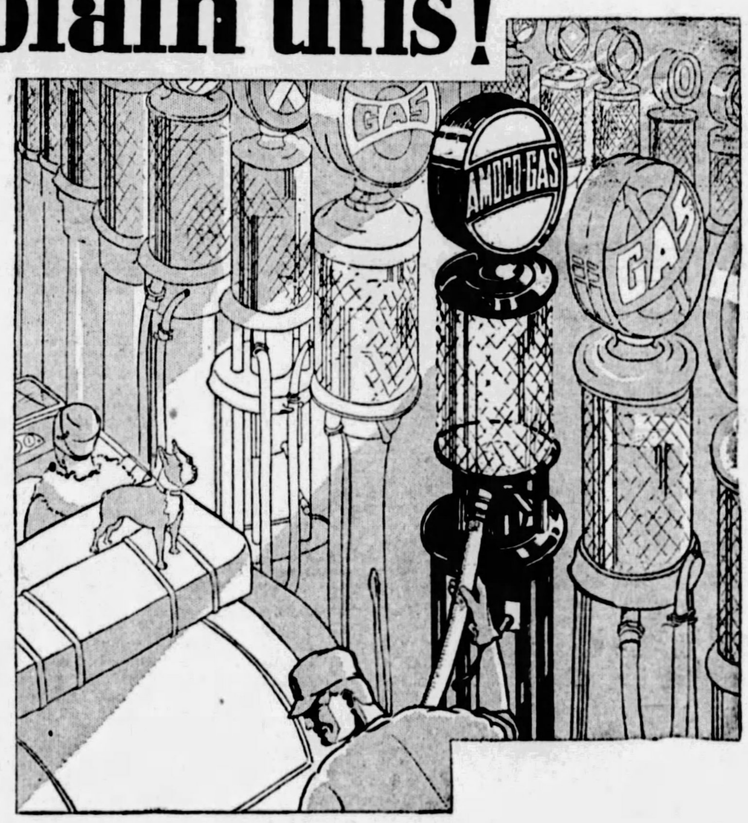
8 P. M. (Eastern Time)

WEAF, New York; WEEI, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland, Me.; WLIT, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WGR, Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburgh.

7 P. M. (Central Time)

WWJ, Detroit; KSD, St. Louis; WOC, Davenport; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City.

Easy to explain this!



It happens every minute of the day. A filling station with pumps galore--pumps all colors of the rainbow--a confusing collection of trade-marks. A motor car glides in--glides is the right word. A hurried scanning of the various globes and, without hesitation, it stops before the dependable green pump with the AMOCO-GAS globe. "Certainly, AMOCO," the driver says, "fill her up."

Yes, it happens every minute of the day. And there's no explanation necessary to an AMOCO-GAS user. He pays a few cents more per gallon because he knows AMOCO-GAS costs much less per mile. Each time he heads straight for the AMOCO-GAS pump because he always receives super-performance.

And if you need further explanation, it's waiting for you at any AMOCO-GAS pump.

PETE WENDLING, SONG WRITER, RADIO FEATURE

FORD'S FIDDLER ON KDKA; WCAE HAS MUSICAL TREAT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

REMEMBER when "Yaaka Hula Hicky Dula" had the young folks wild and the old folks frantic?

It was back in 1915 that Pete Wendling started an Hawaiian music craze that wound up with every college boy buying a ukelele.

Wendling will be on the air tonight at 8 o'clock through WCAE. He will play some of his melodies including "Oh, What a Pal Was Mary." We recall that Wendling wrote the music for "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?," the composition that James J. Walker made famous with a lyric contribution. No doubt Wendling will play this Gotham bit.

NURSES TO SING

As a contrast we have John Bernard, Henry Ford's fiddler, from KDKA at 6:15 p. m., and the Presbyterian Hospital Nurses' Chorus in a half-hour concert starting at 7 o'clock.

"Keep moving" seems to be the theme of the Then and Now sponsors, WJAS at 8. Songs descriptive of all modes of travel will be presented.

Pittsburgh has an aviatrix of 16 who made her first flight when she was 4. She is Miss Lillian Dawson, who will speak during the 9:30 program from KQV. Miss Dawson is very much interested in aviation for Pittsburgh and in connection with her radio appearances will make short talks tomorrow and Saturday afternoons at Boggs and Buhl.

WASHINGTON PROGRAM

Young and vivacious—Pittsburgh's own Jessica Dragonette—Miss Virginia Kendrick, contralto, will be the guest soloist on the Kemble and Mills concert from KDKA at 7:30 o'clock.

"My Country 'Tis of Thee" in a special arrangement, will usher in the Washington Birthday celebration from WCAE at 9 tonight. A 50-piece orchestra, directed by Erno Rapee, will give listeners a rare treat. Patiently, too, we wait to hear Schumann's "Traumerei" for five 'cellos. Phil Ohman and Victor Arden will play Zamecnik's "Polly" as a piano duet.

Over at WLW we have the Burnt Corkers at 10 and Little Jack Little at 11:30 p. m.

WHEN you feel that cold coming on—head it off with Bayer Aspirin. Almost everybody knows how these tablets break-up colds—but why not prevent them? Take a tablet or two at the very first sign of a cold and spare yourself a lot of inconvenience and suffering. Do the same when a headache threatens, or when you feel the least twinge of neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism or similar pain. Bayer Aspirin is sure relief, as many have discovered. It is quite harmless, as physicians have long declared. It does not affect the heart, so you may take Bayer Aspirin freely. Use as a gargle for sore throat, to remove the infection. You can get the genuine at any drugstore. Bayer Aspirin. Bayer on every package and on each tablet identifies the genuine.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Elizabeth C. De Cravioto Selects Tuesday as Wedding Day

INTERESTED as we stay-at-homes may be in the events occurring in Pittsburgh these days, our attention is attracted to other cities frequently in order to follow the activities of our migratory social group. These folks who are basking in southern sunshine have apparently been unaffected by the lethargy which usually accompanies a tropical climate, and are doing a great deal of gadding about. They're giving parties and they're going to parties, continuing away from home the season that ended so abruptly just after New Year's Day.

But even the South or California can't monopolize all our attention, especially when an interesting wedding is slated for the East. You remember, don't you, my telling you last month about the engagement of Elizabeth Consuela de Cravioto, a niece of the Herman R. Blickles, of Dunmoyle street? She is a daughter of Mrs. Blickle's sister, Mrs. Louise Ryals de Cravioto, of Waverly place, New York, and her fiance is Magill Smith, son of Dr. Augustin Jacqueline Smith and Mrs. Bouligny Smith, of New Orleans.

The wedding, I hear, has been set for Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, and will take place in St. George's Chapel in New York. It is to be a comparatively small wedding, I believe, the guest list to be fairly well limited to the Eastern and Southern relatives of the bride and the bridegroom, and, of course, few friends. After the service, there will be a reception at the de Cravioto home in Waverly place.

This attractive bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. de Cravioto and Senor Carlos de Cravioto of the City of Mexico, and she attended the Brearley School in New York, and Miss Walker's School in Simsbury, Conn. She went to school in Paris last winter. Mr. Smith attended Woodberry Forest Preparatory School and was graduated from Tulane University.

Mrs. Blickle came up from her Warrenton, Va., home a few days ago for a short stay here, and is going back again today, I understand. Then on Saturday, she and Mr. Blickle are going on to New York to be present at the social affairs that will precede Tuesday's wedding.

AS for the folks away from home for the winter, I've heard about several of their entertainments. The W. S. Horners, who are in Pasadena, gave a dinner Friday night in the Huntington Hotel, with several local people included in their list of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. William McCullough and T. D. McCloskey were among the Pittsburghers at the dinner.

Quite a few local folks are planning to attend the Pirates' ball tomorrow night in the Hotel Soreno in St. Petersburg, Fla. And just this week Mrs. J. M. Shields and Mrs. Jessie D. Maxwell, who have been spending many winters in St. Petersburg, entertained about 18 of their Pittsburgh friends at bridge in the lounge of the Soreno.

And while I am speaking about the travelers, did you know that the Michael L. Benedums are in Honolulu? They are stopping at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, I believe.

Eaglesmere and its winter sports seems to be attracting a number of Pittsburgh folks. I hear that the junior Harmar D. Dennys, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Holmes and the junior George C. Burgwins are planning to spend the week-end there. They will be joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brock, who are living near Williamsport.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Marion Redfern, of Alderson street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Redfern, to Emrys George Francis, of Sharon. An early summer wedding will terminate the engagement.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Flora Gurley, of the Schenley Arms Apartments, and A. B. Coker, which was solemnized February 14 in Palm Beach, Fla. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Coker sailed for Havana.

Corrin, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized last night in the home of the bridegroom by the Rev. Dr. George Taylor, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. Only the immediate families were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Corrin will spend a month in Florida and Cuba, and upon their return will be at home in Singer place, Wilkinsburg.

MRS. GEORGE M. HEINITSCH and her son, George M. Heinitsch, Jr., of McKinley street, Knoxville, sailed Saturday on the California for San Francisco, by way of Havana and Panama. After visiting in California, they will return home by way of the Indian Detour and the Grand Canyon.

Miss Soffel Talks On Current Events

IN considering Russia, Mrs. Sara Soffel, who addressed the Wednesday Current Events Class yesterday, urged her hearers to lay aside their inherent conservative prejudices and look on the communistic government in Russia as one of the most interesting experiments going on in the world today, especially because of the emphasis it is laying on culture. Miss Soffel quoted at length from authorities to show what forward steps have been made by the Soviet government. She also spoke concerning Elihu Root's trip abroad, the resolutions introduced by Senator Capper and Congressman Porter "to put teeth into" the multilateral treaty, the case of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the treaty between the state and the Vatican in Italy. In referring to Secretary Kellogg's request for discussion of this country's fifth reservation to entering the World Court, Miss Soffel said, "It looks as if President Coolidge wants entry to the court as his last diplomatic flourish."

Man Trying to Flag Train Is Run Down

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 21.—Misjudging his distance while about to flag a train, John Ford, 38, was seriously injured when he stepped directly in the path of a locomotive here. He will recover, hospital attaches say.

PEORIA WRECK PROBE BEGUN

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 21.—(INS.)—Coroner William B. Elliott and his assistants today were probing the train wreck which claimed five lives and injured 60 or more passengers aboard the miners' special on the Peoria railway terminal lines near here yesterday.

Two more miners are expected to die, while a score of others are so seriously injured that their recovery is in doubt. Eight hundred miners and shop workers were aboard the train.

Cause of the disaster is still unknown. Rail officials suggested that possibly the extreme cold affected the rails and caused them to spread.

A similar wreck, minus the fatalities, occurred southwest of here at the same time yesterday when passenger train No. 45 on the Big Four Railway, en route from Indianapolis to Peoria, was wrecked on a grade near Danville.

Although the engine, baggage car, club coach and a string of Pullmans were derailed, none of them overturned. Six passengers were injured slightly.

Checks May Decide Annulment Plea

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(INS.)—Giles Greville Healey, clubman, must produce checks in court today if he hopes to prove that he paid his wife $300 a month during their married life together.

He is suing her for a separation and the annulment of her Reno divorce and subsequent marriage to Justin O'Brien Haynes. Mrs. Haynes is the former Virginia Smith, 25, one-time Spence School student.

Mrs. Haynes has testified that her life with Healey was a "state of silent despair."

Teeth 3 Shades Whiter!

Kolynos on a Dry Brush Removes the "Yellow"

The secret Kolynos Formula Makes it the Only Tooth Paste Adapted to Use on a Dry Brush, the Technique Approved by Modern Dental Authorities for Removal of the Mucoid Coating on Teeth.

Yellow teeth spoil all charm. White teeth flatter! Yet yellow or discolored teeth are merely teeth coated with a mucin that forms in the mouth. This coating makes the teeth look dingy and uncared for. It catches stains from foods, drinks and tobacco, and discolors. It holds odors and causes bad breath and "bad taste."

½ inch on a Dry Brush, the Kolynos Technique

The average tooth paste has little or no effect on this coating. Being mucus-like, it merely slips back and forth on the teeth under the tooth brush. Gritty pastes only cut tiny furrows in it.

Kolynos Deals with This Mucin in a Different Way!

Kolynos is a highly concentrated, double-strength dental cream of unique germicidal and antiseptic properties. Due to the exclusive Kolynos formula, Kolynos foams in the mouth. Thus it may be used on a dry tooth brush.

Using Kolynos on a dry brush you use it full strength; also the bristles of the brush remain stiff enough then to scrub the tooth surfaces properly, penetrate the crevices between the teeth and the pits and fissures in the grinding surfaces, and to massage the gums.

Cleans Teeth Down to the Naked, White Enamel Without Injury

A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry tooth brush fills the mouth with a cool, tingling foam. This foam is active and antiseptic. It spreads itself all over the teeth and throughout the mouth. It works on the mucin coating on teeth like millions of tiny fingers. It dissolves it—breaks it up and washes it off the teeth. Teeth are cleaned down to the gleaming, white, naked enamel.

The busy foam pushes its way into all the crevices between the teeth. It cleans out and disinfects all those places where food particles lodge and decay. It stimulates the gums. It combats tartar. It destroys germs and mouth acids. It makes the whole mouth sweet and clean.

Try it FREE!

Kolynos comes in two sizes—30c and 50c tubes—at all drug and toilet counters. Since a half-inch is enough for a brushing, a tube of Kolynos lasts twice as long.

Try the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique at our expense. A two-weeks' tube of Kolynos is free for the asking. Mail the coupon or a postcard.

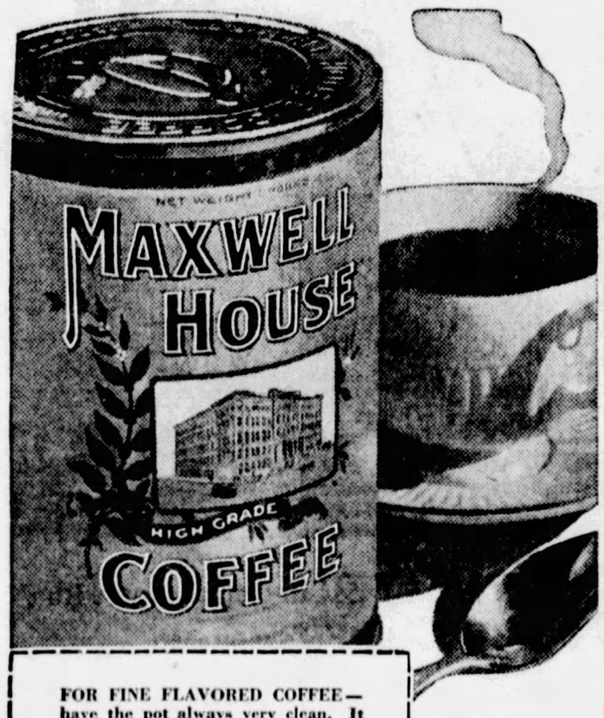
MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE

Matchless flavor . . . many choice coffees BLENDED

APPRECIATION of the special blend of coffee flavors that is the glory of Maxwell House began years ago in the Old South.

A Southern gentleman, with the expert's interest in flavor, determined to find the perfect coffee flavor. He "tasted" hundreds of coffees and decided that no single coffee—however choice—would do. So he combined and re-combined them until he achieved a blend with so rich and mellow a flavor that it completely satisfied him.

Guests of the famous old Maxwell House at Nashville heartily concurred in his judgment. And whoever since then has tasted this "different" flavor has wanted Maxwell House Coffee in his own home. Your grocer has it, sealed in tin to preserve its fine flavor.



FOR FINE FLAVORED COFFEE—have the pot always very clean. It should be thoroughly scrubbed with a stiff brush and clean soapy water after each using, then thoroughly rinsed in scalding water and dried. Leave the top off of the pot between usings.

News About Amusements and Those Appearing in Theater Bills

IN O'NEILL'S "ANNA CHRISTIE" YOUNG PLAYERS OF THE "Y" DO SPLENDID WORK

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

WHILE there is complaint about the decay of the drama in some quarters, particularly those affected in the financial nerve, there is ample evidence always at hand that the stage is being built up anew from the bottom by young forces that have not been contaminated by commercialism. Such proof was given again last night at the "Y" Playhouse when those young players gave Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" in a fashion that left hardly anything to be desired. Two people in the cast—Dorothy Cohen and Norman Porter—did acting that is seldom surpassed on the professional stage. And the production, which was under the direction of Helen Stout, with three realistic settings designed and painted by Frank Stout, also came up to the best professional standards.

This O'Neill drama, one of his earliest and one of his best, is a masterpiece of dramatic writing. It pictures life as O'Neill knew it—in fact, when he returned from his sad voyage as "able seaman," after having been a derelict in Buenos Aires, he lived in the saloon of "Johnny the Priest," in which the opening scene of the drama plays. And he knew all those types that appear in the play—the old Swede bargeman, the mercurial Irish stoker, the lost women of the water front. He has painted them with pitiless realism, which is the deepest pity of all, for to know life is to know sorrow.

But O'Neill knew more than life. He knew, unconsciously perhaps, how life must be transferred to the boards that symbolize the world. Few plays have a firmer technical structure than "Anna Christie," and few have more of the life-blood of dramatic values of conflict and emotion.

Real Actress Is Revealed

When the play was first produced under its present title—it had a previous production as "Chris Christopherson"—it furnished a ladder by which Pauline Lord climbed among the stars. Last night it revealed young Dorothy Cohen as a real actress. That in a role so long and trying, a role that requires great sincerity and outbursts of passionate despair, a young woman should acquit herself with all the finish and force of an old stager, is a source of great satisfaction. Miss Cohen did not strike one false note—she never overplayed—her diction was notably clear, and her grasp of character firm to the innermost fiber.

And the acting of Norman Porter as old Chris was no less admirable—a comedy portrayal of consummate finish, and completely convincing in his serious scenes. Make-up, dialect, everything was all that could be wished and more than could have been expected.

The third important role—that of the Irish stoker played by Richard Fishel—lacked the lightness and buoyancy of the Hibernian spirit, but was powerful in the heavier moods.

O'NEILL PLAY IS CREDIT TO "Y"

ger, and Harry Ziff did well in minor parts. But the high feature of the performance, aside from the playing of the two principals, was the realism of the production. Even the brass rail in the barroom looked like the real thing. The suds in the schooners looked as if they had come from east of Suez. The fog surrounding the barge seemed thick enough to excuse the audience for coughing. But no one coughed—they were too much absorbed by the human fates being unraveled in the gripping play.

The end of the drama, a so-called "happy" ending, has been criticized sometimes, and when it was presented in Berlin, the stage director changed it by letting Anna shoot herself. There doesn't seem to be any good reason for assuming that the ending is happy—in fact, the play doesn't really end at all. It's a piece of tragedy and misery between today and tomorrow. It impresses the beholder by its power of truth.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE BORE

By EMILY BURTON

A SHIP at sea—night—with a gale shrieking its fury and black thunder-clouds overhead.

Libby Smart, huddled on deck with other frightened passengers, though of the safe little home she had left in Maine; thought of quiet, slow-moving Jeff and wished for his protecting strength in this hour of danger.

Even in that confused moment she recalled the look in his eyes when she had told him she was leaving.

"I just can't stand you any longer," was the reason she had assigned for her going. "Mother is in Miami. I'll go there and spend some time with her. After that—I don't know what I'll do. But I won't endure you another week."

"What have I done?" he had asked in that stupid way of his.

"Oh nothing—and everything," was her reply. "You wouldn't understand. There's no use trying to explain. Our living together is impossible. We might as well end it now and be done with it."

Her words, her tone as she recalled them, seemed so needlessly cruel. What if he did go to sleep in the movies? What if he did hate bridge and dancing? What if he did sit dumb while others gabbed around him? What if he did seem awkward and ill-at-ease among her fashionable friends?

Way out here in the ocean with the storm beating around her all those things seemed so trivial. Only yesterday they had seemed important—important enough to make her despise big, kindly Jeff.

A loud shout, followed by screams, moans, curses and prayers brought Libby back from her revery.

"We are going down! God save us!" yelled an old woman falling upon the rail where Libby was standing.

"Here! Here's a life boat," called a man's voice. "Come on. Fall in."

He heaved the old woman into the little boat and Libby tried to follow. The hysterical mob pushed her back, crowded her out, almost trampled her under foot.

In that desperate moment somebody slipped a life preserver around Libby Smart and swept her overboard in his grasp. They struck the waves a few feet from the careening vessel and swam far out in the icy water.

After so long a time a spar came floating by. The man grabbed one end of it. Libby clutched the other. Not a word was spoken. Each one was too much concerned with keeping afloat to waste breath in talking.

About day-break they sighted land. It was only a tiny island off the Carolina coast but it had the look of life and hope to the shipwrecked man and woman.

Libby fainted as her rescuer lifted her from the floating timber and dragged her shivering body out upon the sand. When she opened her eyes she was lying on a bed of leaves underneath a tree. Close by, bending over a brush heap, adding twigs to a little blaze was—yes, it was Jeff!

"I'm delirious," she thought. "I'm seeing things." But the vision persisted.

"Jeff," she whispered, "Jeff, is that you?"

The big figure turned and looked at her. The girl raised herself on her elbow and stared.

"It's me, honey. It's Jeff," he assured her in that slow, comforting voice of his. "Don't be afraid. You are all right now."

The next moment she was in his arms.

"Oh, Jeff! I'm so glad to see you," she cried. "How come you here? Where did you find me?"

"Why you never were lost, darling," he answered. "I was on the boat with you all the time."

"You—were—on—the—boat?"

"Yes, I was there. I kept to my stateroom so I wouldn't worry you. I couldn't let you go, alone, all the way from Boston to Miami. You never know what may happen at sea."

"Kiss me, Jeff," was her answer.

"Where were you when the storm began?" she asked, presently.

He hung his head and dug his toe into the sand.

"Honey, I slept right on through most of it. You know what a sleepy-head I am. I'd like to kick myself. You out there on deck all by yourself, in the dark!"

The old tenderness was in his eyes. The old thrill of having him near came back. The sense of security that his bigness and strength inspired, swept over her.

"Please forgive me, Jeff," she begged. "I must have been out of my senses. I could never live without you, Sweetheart. I didn't mean the hateful things I said."

"That's all right Little Girl." He patted her on the head as though she were only six. "Everybody needs a vacation at times. I knew I ought to send you away for awhile. But I guess I was just too selfish to suggest it. It seems so lonesome and—and so sort of desolate without you, Libby."

His voice broke and he was silent for a moment.

"You still love me, Jeff?"

"Love you? Why Honey nothing on earth could make me stop loving you."

"Then you'll take me back?" she said eagerly.

"Take you back, nothing," he laughed drawing her closer. "I never let you go the first time. You just thought I had."

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ZIONIST FUND RALLY HELD

In the little towns of Eastern Europe, 160,000 Jews are waiting to begin the long trek that will bring them home to the promised land of Palestine, but only American funds can make their residence there possible, Judge William M. Lewis, of Philadelphia, told workers for the United Palestine Appeal in a meting at Webster Hall Hotel last night.

Judge Lewis declared exports of fruit and tobacco were increasing in the Jewish homeland, and that progress had been made in fitting Haifa, the chief Mediterranean port, for greater commerce. He urged Jews here to do their share in raising funds for further rehabilitation of Palestine.

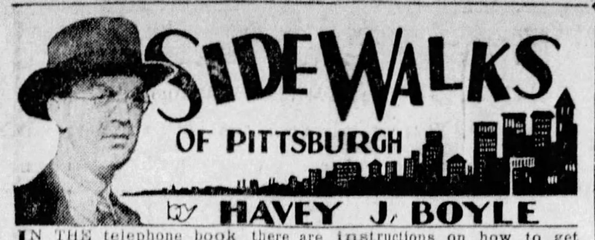
CITY MAY BAR CAR TRACKS FROM IRVINE STREET

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN THE telephone book there are instructions on how to get quickly the police and fire departments. There is nothing in the book to tell how to get a doctor in an emergency, but it is possible, nevertheless, to get a physician in a hurry.

A young father, considerably distraught over the illness of his baby, excitedly explained his predicament to a capable telephone girl. In less than 10 minutes a doctor was on hand and the baby was saved. With great speed the telephone girl found the doctor nearest the home of the excited father and asked the physician to make all possible haste.

The father, by the way, was what we veterans term a recruit. He has yet to learn that babies are made of cast-iron and what would send a 200-pound man to bed for a week will be tossed off by a baby in a few hours.

Most of us have found that a great deal of the trouble with babies comes from careless mothers who have left open so-called safety-pins. Many sleepless hours would be converted into nights of deep slumber if alert fathers after they have wound the clock, put out the cat and locked the doors, would examine the premises, so to speak, for open safety-pins.

Tomorrow this department will discuss the feeding of infants and how to straighten the inevitable bow in babies' legs.

ONE father in town, by the way, has a difficult time amusing a 6-year-old. The kid in question has gone calliope and to please this youngster it is the practice of the father to follow in his automobile an advertising calliope.

The most unusual oyster eater in town is a man of some 50 years. He wears a hard hat, a high stand up collar and a four-in-hand necktie with a large knot. (Of course he has the usual trousers and coat).

He is a former bartender of the village and while thus engaged developed a taste for what we oystermen call bivalves. Both as to quantity and method this man is unique. He eats always a dozen, and sometimes a dozen and a half. He eats them as fast as the oyster counter man delivers them on the half-shell. Sometimes, it develops into a bit of a race with the oyster opener trying to get one up on his customer, but he has never done better than hold even.

THE oyster specialist's entrance into a local groggery is the signal for others to stand by and watch the proceedings. Our hero walks in, planks down his money, and the counter man starts working. One by one our hero takes each half-shell, and without sauce or lemon, he runs pool on 12 or 18 oysters. This done, he looks around, nods to acquaintances, and departs. Some of the watchers have a suspicion he leaves for another oyster house.

You get the notion, somehow, that he is a crusader, out to destroy as many oysters as possible, and with no time to lose. I can't imagine that they could be good without cocktail sauce, but perhaps our oyster eater wonders why anyone would order a sandwich without the ubiquitous pickle.

Theme songs of movie plots are going over big. Even when the melodies are not knockouts, big sales are reported. One reason is the plugging the orchestras and organists give the tune during the long run of the picture.

Taking a Close-Up Look At the Snowflakes In Pittsburgh

HOW PITTSBURGH'S SNOWFLAKES LOOK UNDER POWERFUL MICROSCOPE

Throwing snow and snowballs can have its artistic side, when you know that the snowflakes look like these, photographed under the microscope. Miss Morgan and Miss Spangler are enjoying the snowfall that covers Pittsburgh today. W. A. Bentley, famous for his study of the crystal, photographed the flakes, while the photographs are the property of Dr. Andrey Avinoff, director, Carnegie Museum. No two snowflakes are alike.

PAVING COST ALLOCATION DISPUTED

Council yesterday threatened to bar the Pittsburgh Railways Company from laying tracks in Irvine street unless the company agreed to the city's allocation of costs for paving between the tracks.

The threat came when Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang said that the Company's failure to sign an agreement was one factor slowing up work on the Irvine street grade crossing elimination. A committee of the Hazelwood-Glenwood Business Men's Association, appearing before Council, had charged that work on the improvement was lagging.

PERMIT WITHHELD

When Director Lang answered that the Railways company had failed to sign a cost-sharing agreement, councilmen declared that the city would grant no franchise to lay tracks in the street until an agreement was reached and that the city would go ahead with the work without making provision for putting down car rails.

Another factor delaying the Irvine street improvement, Director Lang said, was the bad weather prevailing lately. Soggy ground has prevented trucks from dumping at Saline street, dirt hauled from a slide in Irvine street.

DELOY FORSEEN

City Engineer Tom M. Reed told Council that the improvement was scheduled to be completed June 1, but that it would not be finished until some time after that date.

Council will confer with the Traction Conference Board and representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company today in an effort to reach an agreement on the allocation of costs for the Irvine street paving.

Felicia Is Determined That She Will Never Return to Brett

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Bound for Reno to get a divorce, and ashamed of the fact because he believes the wreck of his home signifies a colossal failure on his part, Dick Stuyvesant meets Felicia Brett on the train. He lies to her about his destination, saying he is going to Sacramento. She tells him she is on the way to San Francisco to join her father. At the hotel in Reno he finds that an old friend, John Berkeley, affectionately known as J. B., has invited him to share his suite. J. B., confirmed bachelor and rake, hears Dick's story of his marital crash and urges him to forget all about it and take life as he finds it. Dick is half convinced that J. B.'s outlook on life is correct, but he decides he will not give way to such a useless existence so long as there are in the world good women like the girl he met on the train. The next day Dick sees Felicia lunching with two college boys and Peg Hodge, with whom she is visiting. She does not see him and Dick, hurt, and angry and suspecting the worst, plunges into the gayety of the divorce colony. At a party given that night by Lola Penny to celebrate the granting of her divorce, he flirts and drinks with Betty Rogers, a snappy little Southerner also in Reno for "The Cure." They are sobered as Lola drinks poison. Meanwhile, in New York, Felicia's husband, Alexander Brett, aged and cruel retired statesman, tells Felicia's mother, Adrienne Henley-Martin, that he will force his wife to return home without scandal. She asks him what he plans to do.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IV.

BRETT was again himself, suave, gracious, contained. Watching him with troubled eyes, waiting for him to speak, Felicia's mother could see no traces of the trembling, furious old man of a moment before.

"I am sure that it will not be necessary for me to do anything harsh, my dear," he assured her.

Mrs. Henley-Martin bit her lip. Anything harsh! What did he mean? What was in his mind? For the seven years of her daughter's marriage, Adrienne Henley-Martin had admired her son-inlaw for his ability and liked him for his perfect manners; now, for the first time, she felt misgivings, felt, at last, that she might not have been right when she made this match.

"Felicia will return with me and there will be no gossip, no breath of scandal," said Brett, positively.

But in Nevada . . . sagebrush stiffly defying the desert breeze . . . hurling its pungent aroma across the wastes . . . the Sierra Nevadas, stately and jagged, silhouetted against a rosy sky . . . early morning . . . Felicia flung out her arms toward the mountains.

'm so happy!" she ning her shining Ann Hodge's sympathetic face. "I feel so free! I'm never going back—never, never, never!"

The sun had just risen, and Felicia, standing between Ann Hodge and Dr. Tom at the desert's edge, was awed by the beauty of the scene. Never in the East had she seen such colors as those streaking this sky—brilliant, almost crude colors of rose and flame and yellow. The mountains rimming the barren expanse appeared unconvincing, as though they had been cut out of cardboard and propped up against the horizon by some playful giant.

"How can the world be so beautiful—and people be so ugly?" the girl demanded, passionately. "How can Reno's baseness exist next to all this loveliness?"

"Yes, it's strange," Dr. Tom agreed soberly. Besides this beauty there is sordidness and tragedy. I see it every day. These poor devils of colonists—as we call people in the divorce colony—rich and poor, serious and frivolous, have a way of falling ill and sending for me. Usually it's a priest they need not a doctor. I listen to their stories and give them advice more often than I do medicine. Sometimes Reno's divorce colony seems to me like a great, immoral ogre, from which no one can escape! They try to be decent—but three months amid such temptations is too long. One by one, I watch them succumb to dissipation or despair."

Felicia was staring at him, fascinated.

"Goodness, what a picture!" exclaimed Ann Hodge, shaking her head at her husband. She slipped her arm about Felicia's shoulders. "That part of Reno isn't going to touch you, darling—we won't let it!"

But for all her assurance, Ann's heart was troubled. An ambitious mother had hurried Felicia from governesses to marriage. She had never known those frivolous, butterfly years that every girl should have—those years that Ann's own daughter, Peg, was dancing through so riotously. Perhaps her father might have helped her had he lived, but he had died when Felicia was a baby. So from being the docile daughter of a worldly ambitious mother, Felicia had become the girl of a cold, possessive, suspicious old man. She must have endured much in the past seven years. With freedom in sight, would she keep her poise? Billy Blair, one of Peg's college friends, was obviously attracted to Felicia. And college boys, Ann reflected, with a sigh, were not always so innocuous as they appeared. They were dining that evening at the home of Judge Cooper, Reno's best loved jurist, who divorced as many as 30 couples a day, yet remained gentle and sympathetic.

In a white chiffon evening gown, Felicia seemed more than ever a mere girl. She was grateful for the opportunity to meet Judge Cooper. Divorce proceedings could not be so hard as she had thought, with such an understanding person as he to direct them. How silly she had been to lie to that nice young Mr. Stuyvesant in the train. She hoped she would see him again sometime. He, too, looked "understanding."

As if in answer to her thought, Dick, with J. B., entered the room just then.

The nice young Mr. Stuyvesant in Reno! How strange! He had said he was going to Sacramento. Perhaps he was visiting the older man.

When Judge Cooper introduced them, Dick, ever so faintly stressed the Mrs. the token of her lie, in repeating her name, and Felicia flushed.

"Mr. Stuyvesant came out on the train with me," she told the judge, a slight huskiness in her clear voice. "But I didn't know—"

"I knew you were here," Dick said. "I saw you lunching at the hotel yesterday."

"With those funny little college boys of Peg's?" Felicia laughed lightly. "Why didn't you speak to me?"

Dick looked at her skeptically. More playing of roles—the innocent, clinging type of girl? Suddenly he hated himself for his suspicions. Good God, he was getting to be as cynical as J. B. himself! She was smiling at him trustfully, and Dick smiled back.

At dinner they were placed side by side. The conversation, however, was monopolized almost at once by a young professor from the University of Nevada. His voice, full and vigorous, tinged with the accent of the West, cut resonantly through the general murmur.

"People who say that divorce is contrary to Christianity don't know what they're talking about!"

Dick and Felicia looked up, startled. Here was a subject painfully close to them both!

"For 2,000 years people have been misconstruing the words of Moses and Christ and basing their ideas of divorce upon their own misconstructions!"

"The men and women who condemn divorce," he continued ardently, "repeat parrot-like, without understanding them, those words—'What therefore God hath joined, let no man put asunder.'"

Dr. Tom Hodge leaned forward. "Your point, Norton, being that 'man' in the Scriptural sense, means one man, a single person—and not a group of people or the state?"

"Precisely?" said the professor. "The old Mosaic law says, 'When a man hath taken a wife and married her and it shall come to pass that she find no favor in his eyes because he hath found some uncleanliness in her, then let him write her out a bill of divorcement and give it into her hand and send her out of his house. When she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife."

Felicia looked at Dick, her eyes wide with interest.

"It has always seemed to me," said Prof. Norton, "that Christ felt a need of caution in answering questions regarding divorce and the Mosaic law. He knew that the Pharisees were trying to turn His own words against Him. It hath been said, whosoever shall put away his wife let him give her a divorcement,' is how He attacks the problem. Then He goes on to say that there is but one cause for divorce—adultery."

There was a moment's silence, which Judge Cooper broke.

"How about nine-tenths of the people who come out here?" he demanded. "What of the thousands who are divorced elsewhere? Are they deliberately breaking the Word of God when they seek divorce for other causes?"

"The Judge," said J. B., dryly, "is an optimist!"

Dick scowled at him, but the spell was broken. The conversation swung back into other channels. And in a few minutes the guests rose, some to dance to music from the phonograph, some to play bridge.

Dick and Felicia, after one or two dances, found a corner where they could talk without interruption. He admitted his mission in Reno and she confided her plans for a divorce. The conversation at the dinner table had done much to clear up the misunderstanding between them and with the opportunity to be apart from the others there returned that exciting sense of nearness they had experienced so keenly in the train.

A little later Ann Hodge, smiling at some remark of Mrs. Cooper, came upon them. Dick was gazing at Felicia, his heart in his eyes. His hand, reaching for his cigarets, brushed hers, and she looked up quickly, wonderingly—almost eagerly—into his face.

Mrs. Hodge felt a sudden surge of terror for the girl. Was it coming so soon—the complication she had dreaded? Dick must be here for divorce. Did they know the danger? Even simple friendliness might be dangerous in Reno.

Dick and Felicia rose and came toward her.

"It's getting rather late," Dick said lightly, "and Mrs. Brett and I thought we might leave now and have a short drive to see Reno by moonlight before you get home."

"We'll meet you at home after a bit," Felicia smiled, and followed Dick out into the night.

NANCY DEANE By Roy L. Foley

CHAPTER XL.

"THE newspapers must have it now—"

"That's what Caroline Deane had said and now the headlines were screaming—

"GIRL HEIR TO DEANE MILLIONS DISAPPEARS!"

Virginia Varden, model for Ziegelbaum's, Inc., the gold-digging Ginger, sat on her mussed-up bed, devouring every word of the story which told of the disappearance of the late Montgomery Deane's granddaughter.

Ginger devoured it, her eyes traveling so fast that she didn't get half the contents of what was written. She would read a paragraph half through and then start all over again.

"Let me get this straight," she murmured, and started to read aloud, slowly.

"Nancy Deane, the 18-year-old heir and granddaughter of the late Montgomery Deane, millionaire banker, whose existence was revealed when Mr. Deane's will was filed in probate court, late yesterday, has disappeared from the city under mysterious circumstances."

That was the beginning. It repeated what was told in the late afternoon editions of the day before, that with the filing of the will, reporters had rushed out to the Deane household on Fifth avenue—that Mrs. Deane had refused to see anyone at first, but that the insistence of so many demands had at last resulted in the revelation of Nancy's parentage.

But where was Nancy?

Mrs. Deane confessed she had gone to Washington, to her foster parents, the O'Days, some four days ago. That's all she could say. The reporters suspected her of hiding the truth. Nancy was not in Washington. And all the king's horsemen and all the king's men couldn't get Maggie O'Day to tell where she was.

"Begone with yez, the girl's gone back to her rightin' grandmother, Mrs. Deane. Go talk to her."

She shooed them away and locked her doors, and kept Darry locked inside to stop his "blabbin'."

Yes? Maggie O'Day knew where Nancy was, and for all her gruff manner, was glad in her heart that Nancy was safe. She was safe with John Blair; during the months that Nancy had been away from the O'Day cottage John had won the love and confidence of Mud and Darry.

Nancy had come home the Saturday before, tears of gladness in her eyes for love of the old cottage on Maple avenue.

"Mud," she had said, late that night of her arrival, "and you, Darry, remember whatever happens to me, no matter where I go, or what I get or do, I've got to have you near me."

The three of them had sat up late hearing Nancy's story, listening wide-eyed to her description of Mrs. Deane and her great house.

"She just wanted to keep things quiet. She hates publicity," Nancy had told the old folks.

That was on Saturday night.

On Sunday John Blair came. He had been on some exploration work far off in the hills for a week, and that night Nancy told him that she loved him, that she would marry him.

She knew that she loved him more than any man in the world, the moment he came into the cottage. She loved the kindness in his eyes when he had shaken hands with Mud and Darry; she knew she loved him when she saw the light in Mud's eyes—why, she could see that Mud loved him herself, it was the love of an old, rather weary Irish woman for a young man, and its foundations were built on the kindnesses he had done for her. More kindness than Nancy had known about during her days away from Washington.

And so, that Sunday evening, she was left alone with John Blair. Mud and Darry went off to bed. Mud had given Darry a nod and poke and got him out of the old sitting room. For once in his life Darry seemed to understand that he should keep his mouth closed.

It was all so plain to Nancy—this thing that was happening. The two old souls were gone now, up to their beds.

She found herself sitting on the old green couch, that sagging couch that she had known always, with John Blair.

She looked at him. That one little lock was still sticking up. She supposed it would go on sticking up like that forever.

She looked at his hands. They had so much character, those hands. She remembered how she had noticed them almost the first day she had met him: That night in the circus, she had noticed them then.

She reached over to him and put one of her own small white hands on his, and then she edged closer.

"John," she said, "I know I love now. Would you, would you—"

John Blair stopped whatever she was going to add with a kiss.

She struggled out of his arms. "John," she said. "I'm going to tell you something—John, I know who I really am. My name isn't O'Day at all. It's Deane. Nancy Deane. Do you know who my father was? He was Montgomery Deane's son, Monty. Nobody knows it yet, nobody but a few people."

John Blair's answer was: "I don't care who your father was, I only know that I love you more than anything in the world."

* * *

John Blair understood Nancy's desire, and the desire of Caroline Deane, and the desire of all concerned to give her story as little publicity as possible. He knew and Nancy knew that it would make a wonderful tale for the newspapers, and they both knew that there was no hiding their love for each other from the world, once her story was told publicly.

"Let's get married right off, and slip off some place quietly," John suggested.

How glorious that sounded.

"Oh," Nancy cried. "Oh, John."

Well, they hadn't got very far when Nancy's true story had reached the newspapers. But they were on their way. They had slipped out of Washington, the blessing of Mud and Darry upon them.

"We'll stop at mother's home," John had said. "I want mother to meet my—my bride."

And so that very day that the headlines were screaming "Girl Heir to Deane Millions Disappears," Nancy Deane and John Blair were married. In the house of a clergyman not twenty-five miles from the city that was devouring every line of Nancy's incredible story.

They drove to the big white house of John's mother, just outside of Pittsburgh, and were arranging to slip out of the city quietly again the very day that Ginger Varden was curled up on her bed reading the headlines.

Mrs. Blair, looking like John, for all the world, listened to her son's story, and Nancy's story, and she smiled in that same kind way that John smiled.

"I've a daughter now," Mrs. Blair said, "much as I've loved my John, I've always wanted a daughter."

John had written her about Nancy.

"And wasn't it fun, being mysterious like this," she said, "why, I was never more excited in my life."

What a dear, she was, Nancy thought. She grasped Nancy by the arms and hugged her tight.

News of the secret marriage of Howard Wescott and Peggy Spoffard Boyden, divorcee, arrived at the desks of the society editors out of a clear sky.

It described at length who Peggy Spoffard Boyden was! stating that shortly after her marriage to Wescott she had gone East, where he had intended to meet her, that they were to slip off on a honeymoon to Europe.

Ginger, lying luxuriously in her rose colored negligee, on her improved chaise lounge, in the room that could never be tidy, picked up the paper to have a quiet half hour before Jerry came up the stairs.

"Wealthy Young Pittsburgher Secretly Married to Divorcee" the headline read.

"The big bum," Ginger said. "Didn't I always say he was a big bum."

The fate that had mixed up the lives of so many people was not through with them yet, for it arranged a strange meeting in the richly furnished library of Caroline Glendenning-Deane.

Mr. and Mrs. David O'Day of Washington, were there, one on each side of the empty fireplace, quaint as characters in a story of Dickens.

Ginger—Miss Virginia Varden, her lips not quite so red, her whole tone not so flaring, but the same Ginger, was there. Ginger had come on Nancy's invitation, because Mrs. Deane had said to Nancy, "I want the people who have been good to you, who are dearest and closest to you to come."

Outside of Mud and Darry, and John, Nancy could think of no one but Ginger whom she would want to hear Caroline Deane tell the last chapter in the story of Julie Abbott, the circus performer, and Monty Deane, Jr.

Mrs. Deane was standing before the group talking earnestly.

"I wanted you all here at once," she was saying, "because I, too, feel that I must suffer a confession in the hope that God and every person in this room will forgive me.

"I've waited this long, long time to have you people who have been so intimately concerned in the affairs of my granddaughter, come in like this."

Darry coughed and Maggie O'Day gave him a black look.

Ginger was leaning forward now. Her short dress had worked itself above her knees, revealing a strip of pink flesh above her rolled stockings. Her eyes were shining. The too red lips were parted to drink in every word.

"Upstairs in this house there is a room that has been locked for nearly 20 years," Mrs. Deane continued. "Locked as tightly as my heart, and Montgomery's heart, were locked against the son we thought had broken our hearts. And now God has sent back this girl to us. My son's own daughter. Montgomery is gone now, but he died asking that God forgive him, and himself forgiving his own son whom he had driven away.

"I want to open the door to Monty's room, that holds all the things that were his when he left us. And I want you all to see me open it, witnesses to the fact that my heart is opened with it."

All the time that Mrs. Deane was talking Nancy was watching the face of Mrs. O'Day. She was losing her Muddy now. She had told her so many times, "I love you, I'll never leave you," and now she was being torn away from her. Some powerful force stronger than her love, was pulling, tearing them apart.

"Come," said Mrs. Deane.

What a queer, queer procession they made, climbing the broad staircase.

Mrs. Deane ghostly, tall, in flowing billowing georgette. Mrs. O'Day next, puffing, the red rose bobbing.

Darry, thin, stooped, dazed by the grandeur of the Deane household.

Then Ginger, followed by Nancy and John.

On the first landing Ginger grasped Nancy's hand, held her back, and whispered—"Goldie Locks, ain't it grand. Ain't life wonderful, the way things are turning out so sweet.

"Oh, kiddo, I can't hold in any longer. We're married, too. I've been dyin' to tell you ever since I come in. I thought your grandma would never get through with her speech."

"Married? You and Jerry married?" Nancy asked.

"Jerry nothin'" said Ginger. "Zieggie and me. I am now Mrs. Ziegelbaum, Incorporated. Married yesterday at Cumberland. An' say, almost the last thing he says before we was married—can you imagine it—the last thing he asked me was—where's that Nancy O'Day, the kid that didn't know she had 'it?'"

"Say, I could of howled—"

They were all standing in Monty Deane's room now—a boy's room—filled with trophies and the paraphernalia of a boy of 20 years old.

Hanging over a chair, still iridescent, in the half gloom of the large old room was a woman's dress—a ballet dress; and on the floor near by were two tiny ballet slippers; one lay across the other, bottom up.

Within the year the society editors were writing another story—"Mr. and Mrs. John Blair will return from France next spring and will be at home at No. — Fifth avenue."

Mrs. Ziegelbaum read the item, and turned to her husband.

"Listen," she said, "listen about the girl who didn't know she had 'it.'"

The modern man's lovemaking sometimes sounds like a collection of "the world's best wisecracks." You just press a button, and out pops a "snappy saying," all ready-to-serve.

It was easy to fall in love in the solitude of an old-fashioned garden. But the wonder and magic of love is that it still goes right on working miracles and mischief on the top of an omnibus, and amid the noise and glare of a crowded jazz palace.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Symptoms of Sleeping Sickness Are Varied

DOCTORS use a great many big words. "Encephalitis" is one of these. This word is defined as an inflammation of the brain substance.

DR. COPELAND

To the anatomist the brain is known as the "encephalon." This shows you why the term encephalitis is used to express inflammation of the brain.

Even the doctors heard little about encephalitis until after the influenza epidemics of 1918 and 1919. It was observed that influenza was followed in some cases by certain symptoms which indicated an inflammation of the brain. To this disease was given the name "influenzal encephalitis." It is known to the laity as "sleeping sickness."

The way the ailment announces its presence is by the haziness of mind or actual unconsciousness which suddenly appears. The afflicted person is walking along the street and suddenly falls down, unconscious or almost so.

This attack is not like a "fit" as ordinarily understood. There are not likely to be convulsions and frothing at the mouth. There is a dullness or stupor which was never experienced before.

In some cases there may be convulsive attacks. Later on it may be observed that the eyes do not focus or they appear crossed.

Sleeping sickness is an obscure sort of ailment. Sometimes it is extremely difficult to determine that it is really an attack of encephalitis. The doctors have difficulty in deciding whether the symptoms are due to tumor of the brain or hemorrhages into that organ. There have been cases where it was first thought the patient had been poisoned.

I am speaking of sleeping sickness because of a letter which came to me from Toronto. I suppose there have been cases there as there have been in other parts of North America.

The severity of the symptoms leads always to consultation with the family doctor. On this account it is unnecessary for me to make any statement regarding the treatment.

I am glad to say that many of the patients I have known about have recovered. It is necessary to be conservative, however, because any inflammation of the brain is bound to be serious and the recovery slow.

The onset of sleeping sickness is sudden, fever appears and the symptoms develop rapidly. You need not be frightened if you have a headache and general discomfort. These passing symptoms do not mean sleeping sickness. As a matter of fact, there are so few cases there need be no fear of its attacking you or yours.

Penn. Boy Was Nearly Ruined

Thousands of children are robbed of their birthright of health and happiness by awful constipation. Waste matter held too long in their bowels forms poisons which pollute their blood, cause headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, indigestion, biliousness, make them weak, sallow, fretful and underweight.

Don't let your child suffer from constipation until his stomach and bowels are weakened. At the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, stop his trouble quick with California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste. It cleans them out thoroughly, regulates stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally of their own accord.

Thousands of Pennsylvania mothers are eager to tell of their experience with it. Mrs. Katherine G. Garman, 5438 Irving St., Philadelphia, says: "My little son, Biddle, was nearly ruined by weak bowels before I began giving him California Fig Syrup. He was sallow, bilious, half-sick all the time. Soon he became strong and well again. Since this experience seven years ago I've kept California Fig Syrup in the house all the time for his colds and any upset spells."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton you get bears the word "California."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Soup Spoons

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. After eating canteloupe what does one do with the spoon?

2. What is done with the spoon after eating soup served in an ordinary bowl used at a restaurant? POLLY.

LEAVE it on the plate on which the canteloupe is served.

2. If the soup is served in a soup plate, leave the spoon in the plate. If the soup is served in a bouillon cup or a cream soup cup, leave the spoon on the plate that is under the cup.

Use Right Hand

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When writing to a male cousin and his wife whom I have never met, which is correct "Dear Harry and Eleanor" or must I put the woman's name first?

2. When eating a dish such as spaghetti and so forth where only a fork is required, should one use right or left hand? M. M.

YOU should write the wife's name first: Dear Eleanor and Harry.

2. The right hand.

Be Grateful

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly tell me whether or not it is the proper thing to thank your escort for all the little courtesies naturally shown to a lady, such as helping her with her coat, opening the door of a car for her, and so forth? Or should they be accepted as a matter of course? M. L. S.

NO courtesy, no service, how ever small, should be accepted as a matter of course. Each gallant courtesy of the kind that you name should be thanked for. It is in such Big-Little ways that we are able to distinguish well-bred people from ill-mannered people, gracious people from ungracious people, charming-mannered people from awkward and crude-mannered people.

The Joint Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for children to buy and present to their mother a diamond wedding ring on the event of her fortieth wedding anniversary, or is it the place of the father to do this? The children are going to tender their parents a surprise party on this occasion, when a ceremony will take place in conformity with a wedding ceremony, where the father will place a ring on the finger of the mother. Will you please assist me in settling this argument? READER.

I'M afraid that no one can definitely settle this argument, dear friend, for there are no rules for such an exceptional occasion. It would seem to me that the reasonable and logical thing to do, however, is for the husband to present this ring, as he did the first wedding ring. However, I could see also that the children would probably wish to have a share in this ring, and I think that it would be a charming plan for them to unite with the father and give the ring together, a joint present. Couldn't they do this, even if the party is going to be a surprise? Just this one element could be known beforehand—couldn't it? And the father needn't know that there is to be a special presentation. I should think that, having both her husband and children represented in the giving of such a wondrously precious ring would make the mother a gloriously happy person.

Cleaning Stoves

To clean a rusty gas oven, saturate a woolen cloth with linseed oil and rub over the entire oven until the rust disappears. Next rub thoroughly with a dry, clean cloth. Wash the burners and racks in hot washing soda and suds; turn on the oven burners and dry out the range well before turning them off. If this is done once a month the range will last longer and bake better.

Madge Asks Harry to Adopt a Formal Manner Toward His Wife

HARRY UNDERWOOD rushed me down the steps of the farmhouse and out to the new car, which he had brought round to the side of the house. He motioned me to the driver's seat, but I shook my head decidedly.

"Not with an audience," I said. "When we get out on a quiet road I'll try it out."

"Whatever you say, Lady Fair," he boomed, and helped me into the seat beside the driver's. As he went around to the other side to get in himself, I glanced involuntarily up at Marion's room, and saw the flutter of a curtain. She was not so upset then as to preclude an interest in the new car? I felt curiously cheered at this betrayal of childish curiosity—it was an improvement on jealous sulking, at any rate.

I did not know that Mr. Underwood had seen that involuntary glance until he said quietly:

"Suppose you duck all the problems until we head toward home again."

I looked up at him startled and saw a twisted grin upon his lips.

"Oh! I'm not flattering myself that you're dropping everything and coming for a spin this early in the morning just to try out the new car or for the pleasure of my company. You're altogether too busy a chatelaine for that. You want to smack me for something and stand me in the corner with my face to the wall, and you grabbed this heaven-sent opportunity to do it. But I refuse to be smacked until you've driven this car a league or two, first. You'll be in a much better humor, then, and I shall get off more easily."

"You are incorrigible," I said, laughing, "but I'll promise you not to think of anything but this car all the time I'm driving."

"And me," he supplied, investing his voice with an emotional tensity which jolted me for an instant in its reminder of years gone by, when I had had to parry words like that from Harry Underwood's lips. Then his laugh boomed out, and I looked up to see his eyes dancing with delight at having drawn me. I gave a little sigh of relief that the worry of those old days when my best friend's husband was trying to invest our association with romance had forever fled.

"Had you that time!" he chuckled. "You could have posed for a startled fawn without any difficulty. Don't worry! I'm a reformed character, as I told you some time ago. And here we turn on this road which is sufficiently deserted for your debut in driving this boat."

He descended from the driver's seat, I slid over, and for the next hour I reveled in a driver's dream of drifting over smooth roads behind a perfectly functioning car, responding to one's lightest touch. I have had enough experience in driving, so that I needed but a few minutes to familiarize myself with the mechanism, and for the rest of the time I just drove on and on, at a pace whose swiftness I did not realize myself until the wonderful sand dunes beyond Amangansett loomed up before us. Then I turned around and sped back again. As we neared home I remembered that driving the new car was not my only reason for accompanying Harry Underwood on this morning trip. I must have slowed down unconsciously, for Mr. Underwood said in the tone of a resigned small boy:

"I'm ready for the smacking now, dere Teecher, whenever you feel like giving it to me."

I laughed and guiding the car to the side of the road, stopped it and turned off the ignition.

"It isn't a smacking," I said. "You haven't done a single thing which isn't your right, but I'm going to ask a favor of you which you may resent."

"Not from you, Lady Fair," he returned promptly. "Go ahead, shoot the works."

I seized my swiftly vanishing courage and held it fast.

"Until Marion goes will you adopt a little more formal manner toward Lillian and omit all familiar nicknames?"

Quick Success

Few girls in pictures have made such rapid strides toward success as this charming New Yorker. Just a few months ago she was given her first job, shadowing a star. Within three hours, she had a real part in the picture—"The Loves of Sunya."

Miss Bayard says: "I am told my selection was largely due to my perfect skin and lovely hair. I've really never taken much trouble with either. For my hair I use the simple method that most of the girls I know here in New York are so enthusiastic about. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it.

"This method is just what a busy girl needs. It's so easy; and it keeps your hair and scalp so clean you don't need to shampoo half so often. I am letting my hair grow and I find Danderine helps make it soft and easily manageable. I can arrange it any way I want and it stays that way. All my friends are complimenting me on the appearance of my hair, nowadays because Danderine has brought out all its natural color and made it so soft and lustrous."

Danderine removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft, easy to dress. It tones and refreshes the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. It is delicately fragranced; isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

Friday, February 22.

DOUBTS and perplexities seem to reign on this day, judging by the affliction of the planet ruling bargaining, selling, gambling, and business activities generally. In these there may be friction, delays, change and uncertainty. But in all that pertains to the purely personal relations, or to art, amusement, or those businesses catering to the home or to women, a very benign state of affairs may prevail. The energies should be concentrated on these.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a most favorable year in personal affairs, in all that pertains to art, culture, amusement, social, domestic and affectional concern, but in more sordid activities delays, change, doubts and risk are presaged.

A child born on this day may be clever and accomplished in all making for social and artistic skill and graces, but its disposition may be variable, uncertain and may need direction into lines of probity and honor.

When the mind is in a state of uncertainty, the smallest impulse directs it to either side.—Terence.

Nurses discover a "miracle cream"

brings new skin beauty—quickly

IF you want a softer, finer, lovelier complexion, try this new kind of beauty cream that was started on the road to fame by trained nurses.

Doctors first prescribed it for chapped hands, burns, eczema and other skin troubles. Nurses noticed how it made roughened, irritated skins smooth and beautiful, and tried it on their own faces as a powder base and as a massage at night. Their complexions became clearer, healthier, lovelier than they had dreamed possible. Largely through their recommendations, Noxzema Skin Cream has become almost overnight one of America's most popular toilet creams.

Beauty experts say that most complexions would be beautiful were it not for common skin flaws. Noxzema Cream beautifies by correcting just those beauty-destroying faults that have been preventing your complexion from being lovely.

Snow-white and dainty as the finest toilet cream, but wonderfully healing, it sinks deep below the surface, cleanses the pores, heals away every tiny skin flaw, and acts as a tonic, refreshing and stimulating so that the skin glows with renewed vitality, health and beauty.

You don't have to wait long for results with Noxzema; the instant you put it on you can "feel it heal", and then you just watch your mirror for the ever-growing loveliness that it brings.

SPENCER, BUCKEYE USED AS WARNINGS

THE action of the New York Giant management in releasing Pitcher Garland Buckeye back to Toledo in the American Association, following the step taken by the Pittsburgh club in returning Catcher Roy Spencer to Indianapolis in the same circuit, may bring about a change of front on the part of some of the other players who are holding out for larger salaries than have been offered to them despite the fact that there is no assurance they will be able to make the grade in the big show.

Garland Buckeye.

Never in the history of the major leagues has there been so much contract-balking by pastimers just coming out of the minors. There was a time when any youngster would jump at a chance to show his wares in the fast set. Some youthful players have been known to go so far as to offer to pay their own expenses on a training trip, just for the opportunity of getting a tryout, realizing that if they succeeded in delivering they would be in a position to demand, and obtain, all that they were worth in a monetary sense. But now they want it before they have shown they are fit for service in fast company, or after they have failed in previous trials, like Spencer, Buckeye and Heinie Meine.

EVIDENTLY the big league club owners are equally insistent on being "shown" before they yield to any such demands, and mean to waste no time in arguing the point with minor league recruits whose ability to hold down jobs in the majors is still open to question. Indications are that the remaining recruit holdouts will have to get off their high horses or further releases will follow those handed to Spencer and Buckeye.

In the case of Buckeye, it appears that the 245-pound left-hander picked a poor time for his holdout, as McGraw is figuring on Carl Hubbell to be his southpaw regular this year, and has three other fork-handers of promise on his roster. "I believe that Hubbell will win 18 to 20 games, perhaps more, for us," said the Giant boss. "He is one of the best left-handers to come into the National League in many years. Buckeye made a great finish with Toledo last year, but that was not a guarantee that he would win for us. I did not think he was worth what he demanded."

WHILE some major league managers are forbidding the playing of golf by their athletes during the baseball season, at least one star hitter is of the opinion that his batting success has been due to that pastime.

"Golf made it possible for me to lead our league in hitting," declared Goose Goslin, of the Washington club, who beat out Heinie Manush, of St. Louis, by one point for the 1928 American League batting championship.

Goose Goslin.

GOSLIN explained that golf improved his batting because it taught him to follow through in his swing. "By doing this, lost energy is avoided," he said, "and the ball is hit with full force, including the wrist movement so that it is bound to travel an extra distance. Choke hitters never will get the same results that follow-through batters get in baseball. Choke hitters are men who hold their bats far down the handle and hit the ball in a sort of jerky fashion. They do not get the full swing. If they followed through, their batting averages would be much higher."

FROM Allenport, Pa., "A Reader" writes: "In your issue of February 16 I read an article about a player who made all the points scored by his team in a game of basketball. I know a man who has accomplished that feat more than once. He is J. L. Smith, of Allenport. The score in one game was 27 to 26. He scored the 27 points.

"This man was a real star in his time. It was a poor day for him when he failed to make 10 baskets. If he made under eight the critics and spectators remarked that he was off his game. In his best season he scored a total of 531 points. This may seem incredible, but it is true. He played for the Leavenworth (Kan.) Army team in 1908, 1909, and 1910. The team lost only three games during that period, and one of the defeats was due to the illness at the time of the entire first string of players."

BUCKY HARRIS, Detroit manager, denies a rumor that, on account of the hitting and running ability of Emil Yde, recently purchased from Indianapolis, he intends to convert the former Pirate pitcher into an outfielder.

Harris says he is going to use Yde on the mound, as he is in need of seasoned left-hand pitchers. Bucky adds that Yde's record of 19 victories and 12 defeats in the American Association last year makes him feel confident the Dane will come through for the Tigers.

Billy Gibson.

BILLY GIBSON, former manager of Gene Tunney, Benny Leonard and other fighters, is among the boxing men who are picking Young Stribling to defeat Jack Sharkey when they meet at Miami Beach, Fla., next Wednesday night. "Stribling will prove too rough for Sharkey," is the opinion expressed by Gibson. "Sharkey has never bumped into a style like Stribling's. The only way to fight Stribling successfully is to rough him back, and Sharkey doesn't know how." Gibson says he is amazed at the reported advance sale for the Sharkey-Stribling show. He had doubted the success of the Florida fistic venture but had to call it off because the advance sale indicated a gate of not more than $25,000.

NOT only are many football men opposing the new fumbled-ball rule from the viewpoint of the best interests of the game, but some of them are taking exception even to the committee's statement that "the fumble of the ball is the error of a single player, and not the fault of the team as a whole."

They insist that an inaccurate passer or a butter-fingered receiver is a TEAM weakness; that the old rule put a premium on sure handling of the ball and alertness in following it, and that those qualifications are fundamentals of TEAM play.

IN LINE with this argument, one veteran expert, James S. Collins, contends: "If a team has developed a Lovejoy at center who can pass the ball accurately under all conditions it is a stronger team than an eleven which has not. If a team has developed a Sammy White who is eternally ready to pounce upon a fumbled ball it is a better team for that reason.

"The actual recovery of fumbled balls against Harvard and Yale, which led to touchdowns, was the work of White alone, and not of his team, but the glory that was White's on those two occasions was Princeton's too."

AT LEAST one thing may be considered certain when K. O. Christner enters the ring with Paulino Uzcudun in New

ORCHESTRA DIRECTOR

Mrs. Margaret Curry, of 5451 Rosetta street, who directs an orchestra in a downtown hotel and is ranked with Pittsburgh's leading women golfers, says that a sense of rythm is one of the first essentials to success in music and in the links sport. An expert violinist, Mrs. Curry experienced little difficulty in mastering golf when she took up the sport four seasons ago.

MRS. MARGARET CURRY

Mrs. Curry's music-golf career explodes the theory that all artists are temperamental, for, while she long has ranked as an artist with the violin, the youthful star never has permitted an unruly temper to interfere with her artistry with mashie and niblick. And golf, as all golfers know, will bring "temperament" to the surface, if there is any in the player's makeup. Tall of stature and stately of bearing, Mrs. Curry presents a striking appearance on the links as well as on the concert stage.

TOURNEY STAR

Entering tournament play two years ago, Mrs. Curry advanced to the final in the Schenley Park Women's Golf Club championship, and in 1928 tied for the medal in the city title tourney.

TWO NEW BUCS TO GO AGAINST AMERICANS

GAMES TONIGHT.

Pirates vs. New York Americans at Duquesne Garden (8:30).
Detroit at New York Rangers.
Montreal at Canadiens.
Ottawa at Chicago.

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Former Pirates will appear as Pirate foemen and former Pirate foemen will make their local debut as Pirates at Duquesne Garden tonight when Benny Leonard's skaters conclude their season series with the New York Americans. Tex White, who wore Pittsburgh livery until last week, is the former Buc who will do some right winging for the spangled Americans, and Eddie Bouchard and Jess Spring, who came here in the White deal, are the former New Yorkers who will be doing their first skating in Pittsburgh for Pittsburgh tonight.

The Bucs traded Goalie Roy Worters to the Americans for Goalie Joe Miller at the start of this season. Lionel Conacher, captain of the invaders, is another former Pirate, but Big Train Lionel has been spilling Bucs for so many seasons that he is regarded as a full-fledged foeman from whom all "home boy" sentiment has been shorn.

NEW BUCS IN DEBUT

Spring, a rugged defense man, and Bouchard, a veteran left wingman, reported to Manager Odie Cleghorn Sunday night when the locals appeared there for their tilt with the champion Rangers. Big Jess is reported to have done some snappy defending in Boston Tuesday night, and he probably will alternate with Bert McCaffrey as Roger Smith's mate at the defense posts tonight. Bouchard has been used as Jerry Lowrey's "sub," but Jerry has been playing such a whale of a game that Eddie's opportunities to get into action are rather infrequent.

Although the Pirates were beaten, 1 to 0, in Boston Thursday, they are reported to have outplayed the Bruins by a big margin. The Hub skaters' lone goal was a fluke that climaxed a protested play, and Herb Drury and Frank Frederickson, both of whom gave the Bruins plenty of trouble throughout the evening, were victims of miraculous saves after they, in turn, had filed through to the Boston goal.

HERB STARS IN NEW ROLE

Drury, incidentally, takes to the right wing job like a bootlegger to a machine gun. Shifted from center when the Tex White trade left the Bucs without a spare right winger, Herb played a brilliant game in his first start in his new position last Saturday, and he continued to play great hockey in New York and Boston. Johnny McKinnon, Drury's successor at center on the spare line, has shown only such shortcomings as inexperience as a forward might produce, and he probably will show improvement as he becomes more accustomed to his new task.

In three previous meetings with the Americans the Pirates emerged with two victories and one defeat. The first duel resulted in a 2-0 win for the Americans, but in succeeding frays the Bucs won by 1-0 and 2-0 scores. All three battles were battles in every respect, and tonight's joust should be a thriller. The Pirates are smarting from the undeserved defeat they absorbed in Boston and the Americans are attempting to slip past Les Canadiens into the International Group lead. The probable lineup:

Americans.		Pirates.
Worters	G	Miller
Boyce	R. D	McCaffrey
Conacher	L. D	Smith
Burch	C	Frederickson
Broadbent	R. W	Darragh
Connor	L. W	Miller

American spares—Himes, McVeigh, White, Simpson, Dye, Sheppard; Pirate spares—Drury, Lowrey, McKinnon, Spring, Bouchard, Holway.

CHAMPS RETAIN TITLE

The Duquesne Lafayettes retained their title as Allegheny County League champions last night when they defeated Reliance Life at Columbus Temple, 39 to 32. The Lafayettes won the title in both rounds, making the third straight year they have reigned as champs. The lineup:

Lafayette—39.		Reliance—32.
Dostar	F	Hoyt
Minnick	F	Newell
Ramsay	C	Twomey
Benedict	G	Siebel
Gubby	G	Montgomery

Field goals—Dostar 2, Minnick 3, Ramsay 5, Gubby 5, Benedict, Montgomery 2, Siebel 4, Twyman 4, Hoyt 3, Newell. Foul—Lafayette, 11 out of 16; Reliance, 8 out of 12. Referee—Al Eyth.

Diegel, Miss Turpie Hold Mrs. Hurd, Hagen Even

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, professional golfer, and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former holder of international titles, met Leo Diegel, American professional champion, and Miss Marion Turpie, Pan-American queen, in an 18-hole exhibition foursome that ended all square.

Diegel turned in the best score, a 71, one above par.

PITT AND TECH REGISTER VICTORIES

By JESS CARVER.

Geneva College, in somewhat of a daze following the setbacks suffered by its Covenanter basketball team at the hands of Allegheny and Bethany, will rally to the support of its colors tonight as the Men of Loeffler invade New Wilmington for a very important Tri-State Conference clash with Westminster.

Both teams need to win tonight to insure their sticking in the race. If the Covenanters are able to repeat their early season victory over the U. P's, then they will have a chance to take the Conference title by beating Bethany at Wellsburg next week. But if they lose, the best they can hope for will be a three-way tie with the Titans and Bisons, still provided they win from the West Virginians. And the same goes for Westminster, although the job facing the Blue and White, with the Dukes yet to be played in Pittsburgh, is a bit more complicated.

TITANS FAVORED

Westminster, playing on its home court and with the string of the Bethany defeat last week and the Geneva beating earlier in the year to spur the boys on, figures to win.

Charley Hyatt of Pitt, maybe you've heard of the lad, went back to his scoring ways out in the Stadium Pavilion last night against Grove City and wound up with one less point than was registered by the entire Crimson club. Pitt won the ball game 49 to 25. Hyatt accounted for 24 points.

Charley threw 10 field goals and four out of five fouls for his evening's work. Eddie Baker and the rest of the Panther cast rendered able assistance. Eddie was good for six goals and 2 out of 4 fouls for 14 points.

PITT STARTS SLOWLY

The Panthers, after a ragged start, went out in front 22 to 12. Reeves, Grove City's center, played very good basketball, as did Red Ryan, assigned to the thankless task of playing Hyatt. Charley threw four on him during the first half.

There was no stopping the Panthers after the intermission, or rather, there was no stopping Hyatt and Baker. Charley got his six goals and Baker his four, and Milt Cohen kicked in with his second. Capt. Wunderlich dropped one from the side of the court to add to the total.

The Grovers looked like a better team than came down here last year, and for the first 15 minutes of the game, matched the Panthers point for

DAVIES BOXES MAYBERRY TONIGHT

Willie Davies and Howard Mayberry, rivals for the bantamweight championship of Western Pennsylvania, clash in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport tonight. Both are veterans and Davies is the former flyweight champion of the stat, while Mayberry formerly held the Canadian bantamweight title. In addition, both hail from the Monongahela Valley, Davies being from Charleroi and Mayberry from Donora. It should be one of the fastest and cleverest battles of the year in these parts.

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, the great-looking welterweight prospect, meets Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, in the semi-final. Buck recently defeated Aller Beatty in the same ring and last week stopped Freddie Shaffer, of McKeesport, in one round in the Moose Temple.

Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight of Elizabeth, boxes George Kerston, of McKeesport, in the second bout, and Jimmy Marlowe, of Allquippa, and Bobby Keede, of the East End, battle in the opener at 155 pounds.

MOOSE CARD COMPLETE

Promoter Francis Flynn has completed the bill for his show in the Moose Temple tomorrow night with the signing of Jess Hoak, of McKeesport, and Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, for the second bout. Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, and Cuddy Desiaco, of McKeesport, will meet in the 10-round windup, and Hugh Fetser, of the North Side, and Johnny Windsor, of Herron Hill, in the semi-final. Sammy Paris, of the Hill, and Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, furnish a return bout in the opening event. DeMarco returned yesterday from a stay in Philadelphia and worked out in Flynn's gym.

A team of local amateur boxers will compete in an inter-city show in Grand Rapids, Mich., tonight. The local battlers on the team are Pete D'Allesandro, Mose Butch, Joe Orsini, Lawrence Markey, A. DeLuca, and George Chambers. Jack Metz is in charge of the party.

Jimmy McLarnin and Joe Glick have been definitely signed for a return bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night of next week. Bobby Tracey and King Tut met in St. Paul the same night. Jimmy Slattery and James J. Braddock box in Madison Square Garden, March 11.

ROCCO MEETS OKUN

Zamlet Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, faces Yale Okun, at Youngstown tonight. Young Guido, of Sharon, boxes Joe Feldman, of Cleveland, in one of the feature preliminaries.

Jack Hood and Len Harvey are scheduled to box for the English middleweight championship in London tonight.

The Keystone A. C. has arranged to accommodate a turnout of 700 members at its first amateur boxing show, Saturday night, and also will hold mitt programs on the nights of March 30 and April 27.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, knocked out K. O. Sweeney, of Utica, N. Y., in the fifth round of a bout at Rochester, N. Y., last night.

Magnolia Leaves For Miami Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP.) Lou Magnolia, veteran referee, received a telegram from Jack Dempsey, notifying him of his selection to officiate at the Sharkey-Stribling fight, and asking when he would leave for Miami Beach. Magnolia replied that he would head south tomorrow night.

The style of each boxer is familiar to Magnolia as he has refereed previous fights between Sharkey and Jim Maloney, Stribling and Tommy Loughran, and Stribling and Johnny Squires.

LOHMAN BOWS TO LOUGHRAN

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion of the world, decisively outpointed Joe Lohman, Toledo veteran, in a 10-round bout here last night.

Lohman received a neat boxing lesson from the champion, whose tantalizing left was beating a tattoo all over the Toledoan's face and occasionally Loughran crossed or uppercut with his right. Neither man was ever in distress.

Malone, Herron Guests at Smoker

James F. Malone, president of City Council, and Councilman John S. Herron will be guests of honor at the annual stag of the Duquesne Light Company section of the N. I. L. A. tonight in Syria Mosque. The program will open at 8:15 o'clock with addresses by the two guests, who will be introduced by T. E. Purcell, general superintendent of power stations. Following the talks, a program of boxing, wrestling and vocal and instrumental entertainment will be carried out.

PARTY REACHES LOS ANGELES TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

EL PASO, Feb. 21.—The Pirate pitchers and catchers passed in and out of El Paso this morning in the knowledge that they would be in Los Angeles Tomorrow morning, provided their train schedule is maintained.

The confident bearing of Lee Meadows, spectacled twirler who joined his buddies at Kansas City, has done much to cheer up Manager Bush and other Buccaneers. The sharpshooting division on the club looks especially bright at this time and when Meadows announced he was sure that his arm is much better, the barometer went up in a corresponding degree.

REST HELPS LEE

"I feel quite sure that rest was what my arm needed," said Meadows, in discussing his return to the game. Lee, it will be recalled, asked to be retired last summer after he became convinced that he was of little help to the club. He returned to his Florida estates and gave the weakened member plenty of opportunity to regain its strength.

"The trouble was right here," resumed Lee, designating a spot on his forearm close to the elbow. "I have done a little throwing recently and was tickled over the way the arm responded."

Pilot Bush shares the prevalent optimism relative to his flinging staff. With Carmen Hill already in camp and in action and with Jess Petty eager to prove his worth, Bush looks forward to some clever slab work right from the jumpoff. Moreover, he is hopeful that Remy Kremer will be a different pitcher than he was in the first half of the last campaign.

The boss of the Freebotters already likes the appearance of Jim Stroner, sensational punch man of the Western League, yet Donie last night sounded a note in regard to Stroner that is quite timely. Every opinion passed on the youngster has been favorable; Bush does not deviate from this procedure so far as skill is concerned, but after sizing up the lad in the past few days, Donnie fears that Stroner may be a bit too quiet.

BUSH WANTS PEP

"I trust that Stroner does not prove to be too retiring," said Donie. "I would like to have him show a lot of ginger around the diamond. If it weren't for Dick Bartell and young Jonesey, things would be altogether too quiet for a ball field."

So Bush apparently will endeavor

MIELES OPPOSE GOLDENSONS TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Natural rivals clash tonight in the only Allegheny County League game on the schedule when the Goldensons engage the Miele-Franchinas on the South Side Market House floor.

While neither club has a chance to win the second round championship of the County League, both are eager to improve their positions and are determined to cop tonight's decision.

The Mieles and Goldensons invariably display their best basketball when they meet on the floor and their battle at the South Side Market House tonight should prove no exception.

The two clubs boast large followings and a big crowd is expected to see them in action.

SERIES ARRANGED

The Lou Gordon Juniors and the Red McMahan Club of the South Side will begin their three-game series for the junior championship of Western Pennsylvania next Tuesday night at Columbus Temple, the home floor of the Gordons.

The Gordons defeated the South Siders in a similar series last winter and the McMahans are eager to even the score this season. The two clubs have been rivals for several years and should draw large crowds to their games.

The Gordons now are being coached by Dr. Lewis A. Singer, former star with the Coffey Club Juniors.

DRIBBLES

The Mangans play the Conleys at Munhall and Immaculate Heart meets Greenfield in the two Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League games carded tonight.

The Y. M. H. A. will meet Heinz House at the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery armory Saturday night in the semi-finals of the A. A. U. tournament. Next Thursday night the Y. M. H. A. meets Wilkes Barre Y. M. H. A. here. The two teams met in Wilkes Barre last season and next week's contest is a return engagement.

Adley, Noggler and Wigmore, ailing Manchester Community Lyceum stars, will be back in the lineup tonight when their team meets the Rossman Tile Five of New Brighton on the Lyceum floor. Manchester has dates open for light first-class teams. Call Charles Craig at Linden 1166-J.

Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, have been chosen for the second annual junior and senior basketball tournament to be staged at Monongahela High School under the auspices of the Mineral Beach Club. Entries may be filed with L. C. Healey, Box 775, Monongahela, Pa.

ALL-STARS PREPARE

The Allegheny County League All-Stars are making preparations to handle a large crowd at their game with the Cleveland Rosenbiums in Harding High School, Aliquippa, Pa., on Friday, March 1. The County League All-Stars will be led by Nate Lippe, Miele-Franchina forward and Aliquippa High coach.

The Red McMahan Club will meet the Carson Club in the preliminary to the Duquesne Light-Butler Armco battle at the South Side Market House tomorrow night.

The Sharon Buhl Five will meet the Cleveland Rosenbluma in Sharon on Saturday, March 2.

PIRATES PASS EL PASO

to add to the liveliness of his new player in the event of a lack of pepper on the part of the infield candidate. Donie likes the stature of the youngster immensely; Jim's broad, powerful shoulders reflect the punch he has shown in his minor league career.

The Buccaneer entourage is slated to reach Phoenix, home of George Grantham, tonight. Shortly after that stop the athletes aboard will retire for their last night on the sleepers. And when they arise, they expect to be in sunny Los Angeles.

Chillysauce

Not all baseball players are idle or engaged in hunting during the winter months. Take the quiet Roy Mahaffey, for example. The South Carolinian is a bricklayer by trade and his hands are a sure indication of the work he has been doing. But bricklaying is a profitable way of spending one's time, even if it is hard work.

In the event of a long run of wet weather while the Pirates are scheduled in San Francisco, Manager Bush will order his first string pitcher's back to Paso Robles. The experiences of last spring were sufficient to put Bush on his guard.

Eighteen pitchers were supposed to be in the Paso Robles camp by Friday, but the list has been cut to 16, owing to the salary disagreements of Heinie Meine and Larry French. The smaller amount, however, represents a big staff of hurlers. It is practically twice the number carried by a major league through the championship season.

Pooch Barnhart and his melodious mandolin solos will be missed by the Buccos, just as there was a void when Lefty Grimm stepped out with his banjo and good humor. Barnhart was "deeper" than one would glean from a casual study of the quiet Pennsylvania Dutchman. Pooch could lead any string orchestra, and he didn't make much fuss doing it.

The best bridge foursome on the train consists of Jewel Ens, Jess Petty, Oscar Stanage and Charley Hargreaves. The modern card game is fast taking the place of poker as the favorite pastime of the diamond athletes.

The Pirate exhibition schedule is the most pretentious ever arranged for a Pittsburgh club, yet the jumps are so arranged as to provide much comfort for the athletes. No less than 23 tilts are listed, exclusive of those to be staged between the Regulars and Yeniggans at the Paso Robles camp.

The exhibition tour holds some innovations. On March 10, the San Francisco Seals will journey to the training town of the Buccos for a single game. Five days later the Pirates will take on the Seals at their Monterey training site. Another odd game is that arranged for March 25 at Santa Ana, where the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League will be met. Portland is training at that spot, which is not far from Los Angeles. This contest is the last carded for California, the schedule calling for a clash with the Tigers in Phoenix on the following afternoon.

PERRY FACES OLIVER FIVE TOMORROW

Perry and Oliver High Schools will battle tomorrow afternoon in the first game of the Section II, City Senior League playoff, on the Langley High School floor in Corliss. The board of education made the announcement.

The winner of tomorrow's conflict will battle South Hills High, which drew a bye in yesterday's drawing, next Tuesday.

South Hills, Perry and Oliver wound up their regular schedule in their group in a triple tie. The winner of Tuesday's embroglio will face Fifth Avenue High School, defending champion and winner of Section I, for the city title.

Interest is running high in the affair, and it is anticipated a large crowd will attend each of the Section II playoff games.

point. Unfortunately, 40 minutes make up a game, not 10.

Bob Thorn, who is becoming famous as "The Man with the Smile" composed himself on the bench and let nature and the Pitt system take their course. He never lost his smile, which is more than can be said for Doc Carlson, who fussed and fumed and fidgeted as though his club was a mile and a half behind. He would.

The lineup:

Pitt—48.		Grove City—25.
Hyatt	F	Angelo, (C.)
Zehfuss	F	Waleski
L. Cohen	C	Reeves
Wunderlich (C.)	G	Caulfield
Baker	G	Ryan

TARTANS WIN

Carnegie Tech raised its average over last year 200 per cent last night by taking Andy Kerr and his Wash-Jeff Presidents into camp, 37-to-26, winning for the second time in two years and copping the first Big Four contest in the same length of time.

But, the victory was more than sweetm for the Plaid, for it was the first time in history that a Carnegie Tech basketball team has won from W. and J.

Field goals tossed by Bill Brown, Nease and the elongated Merton put the Tartans out in front by a comfortable margin early in the game. Crum had a good evening and his three goals aided materially in bringing home the pork. The Skibos were out in front by a 23.13 score at half time.

During the second period, the Tartans nursed their lead and improved their defensive play, checking two or three desperate Wash.-Jeff. rallies. The Red and Black passing game failed to function consistently. Big Adam Saunders, who accounted for nine field goals in Monday night's game at Washington, was held to a pair last night. The lineup:

Carnegie—37. W. & J.—26.

Brown	F	Robinson
Crum	F	Hoskins
Merten	C	Sanders
White	G	Gilchrist
Nease	G	McMunn

Field goals—Nease 6, White 2, Merten 2, Crum 3, Brown 2, Robinson 3, Hoskins 3, Saunders 2, Gilchrist, McKissock.

Fouls—Tech, 7 out of 12; W. & J., 7 out of 15.

Substitutions—W. & J., McKissock for McMunn, McMunn for McKissock; Tech High for Nease, Fox for Merton, Rice for Crum.

Lassman Recovers; To Attend N.Y.U. Alumni Fete

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—The strange case of Al Lassman, New York University football captain, who has been suffering from injuries received in a game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh three months ago, have taken a decidedly optimistic turn.

Indicating that Lassman will be able to attend the annual dinner to the football team here March 5, Chick Meehan, N. Y. U. coach, sent this wire to university officials from Miami Beach, where the big tackle is convalescing:

"Football dinner should be a large success. Lassman anxiously waiting to get back home. The alumni will be more than pleased to see him, as he has fully recovered."

SEASON'S BEST SOCCER BILL AT HAND

By TOM BIRKS.

The Pittsburgh Soccer Club is to meet the Corinthians on Saturday at the Westinghouse High School field, and the Heidelberg club will meet the Akron Goodyears at the Bridgeville speedway on Sunday. Both games are in the fourth round of the National amateur cup and local soccer fans seem assured of the best soccer bill of the season.

The Pittsburgh-Corinthian battle will have a decided kick, and since the visitors upset the dope by stopping the Celtics, their chance of holding Pittsburgh has been boosted. Jack Lowther stated that only one change would be made in the Pittsburgh lineup from the team that swamped the Cleveland Sparta. Andy Strachan will be missing, and Schang will partner Miller. Strachan has reported an injured leg, but Schang should be more effective against the Corinthians. Schang plays typical Curry defensive soccer and knows all the weaknesses of the McKay lineup. So Schang, together with Big Kick Miller should form a good backfield.

The battle at the Bridgeville Speedway on Sunday offers the fans the first test Heidelberg has received since winning the national title. Akron is coming to Pittsburgh on Sunday with the best club that has shown here in years.

JUST FUMBLING AROUND WITH THE RULES

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Football rules committee has ruled out the Riegels play.

Fumbled balls in the future will be dead where they occur—in the ath-a-letes' heads.

That's a fumble in itself.

Next move will be for Bill Muldoon to rule out knockouts in boxing.

Can't penalize fighters for getting their chins in the way.

Hockey moguls might speed up their game by ruling out the few goals that are made.

And keep the play in center-ice, where a majority of spectators can follow it.

Baseball rookies from Peoria are in their glory these days—riding the cushions to the training camps.

It won't be long now. Before they walk back.

John Gruber is in training for a big scoring season. Calling hits and errors on the jury.

First robin heralds the approach of the end of the basketball season. But ushers in the track season.

That's worse.

All we have to find out now is what Sharkey and Stribling are fighting for.

If anything.

Strib claims he has scored 113 knockouts. Two of them weren't the same fellows.

And Sharkey has claimed at least that many fouls.

What a swell North Side copper Tunney would make.

With his camera-smashing act!

Lou Magnolia, of New York, who knows a flying mare from an arm lock and to stop counting at 10, will referee the Stribling-Sharkey bout.

Poor Will Tilden is all washed up, it seems. Won't be able to get himself banned more than three or four times this year. Unless they change the rules.

Only thing that worries our Chilly Doyle on the training trips is the possibility of a waiter dunking his thumb in his coffee.

That's always a social error. At least, Uncle John Gruber scores it as such.

Max Schmeling is on his way back to Europe to take some pictures of Gene Tunney and get his name in the papers.

Basketball season is near its end without an argument on the four personal fouls rule. Things aren't as they used to be.

Strange as it may seem, the Ryder Cup is not a polo trophy.

Babe "Kayos" Dempsey With Bat

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth's rushing tactics in the second round ended his fight with Jack Dempsey at the annual Palm Beach charity show last night and sent the former heavyweight champion from the ring.

After Dempsey had won the first round because the Babe couldn't land his blows, the home run king started the second swinging a heavy baseball bat at his opponent's head. Taking no chances with this opponent who disregarded boxing rules, Dempsey slipped under the ropes leaving to the Bambino the plaudits of the crowd.

Boxes for the show sold for as high as $5,000.

WOMEN STAR IN TOURNEY

Exceptionally fine bowling on the part of women featured the opening day's rolling yesterday in the Southern Duckpin Tourney being staged at the South Side Decreation Alleys.

The Climax girls of this city scored 2,136 for the day's high total in the five-women event. Second high went to South Side Recreation girls who scored 2,053. Friendship girls ranked next with 2,016.

In the women's doubles a tally of 989 was registered by Misses Ammon and Zeber. Second high was rolled by Misses Bingham and Corbett, 922, while Misses Corbett and Smith toppled 869 pins.

Miss Law copped the day's honors in the singles when she tallied 519, with a high single game of 224. Miss Peterson rolled 453 for runner-up honors.

The Bykowski brothers went into first place in the doubles for men with 1,104, while the Sukel brothers of Donora rolled 1,007 for second place.

F. Sukel heads the singles division with his score of 567.

TIGERS START FOR PHOENIX CAMP

DETROIT, Feb. 21. — (INS.) — Bound for sunny skies and the annual spring thaw of chill-bitten "soupbones," at Phoenix, Ariz., five pitchers and two catchers of the Tigers, led by Bucky Harris and accompanied by the usual quota of newspaper correspondents and photographers, were well on their way today and nearing St. Louis where a 12-hour stopover was scheduled and where the vanguard was to be augmented with seven players and two coaches.

The pitchers were Haskell Billings, Owen Carroll, Phil Page, Fred Pilgras and Fred Zacharaison; the catchers, Ed Phillips and Bill Hargrave. At St. Louis they were to be joined by Pitchers Sam Gibson, Vic Sorrell, Elam Van Gilder and George Smith; Catchers Larry Woodall and Ray Hayworth, and John Stone, recruit outfielder.

Another stop is scheduled for Dallas where the rapidly growing squad will add Lil Stoner, veteran right-hander; Johnny Prudhomme, former Toronto hurler, and Frank Barnes, a youthful southpaw.

Emil Yde, former Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, and now under Tiger colors, is in Florida and ready to jump into hard training. George Uhle, late of Cleveland, who is in Los Angeles having his pitching arm treated, expects to report to Harris at Phoenix in a few weeks.

SCHALK DRIVES GIANTS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 21.—(INS.)—Ray Schalk, coach of the New York Giants, who has temporary charge of the training camp here, is proving to be an even more severe taskmaster than Manager John J. McGraw. Although rain prevented practice yesterday, the former White Sox pilot routed the players out of their hotel for a long hike.

M'GRAWMEN IN FOLD

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(INS.)—There are no holdouts on the roster of the New York Giants today, with the announcement that Outfielders Jimmy Welsh and Fred Leach had come to terms.

The Brooklyn club received the signed contracts of Infielder Henry Cullop and Hal Lee, rookie outfielder.

Local Golfer Loses; Miss Van Wie Wins

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—Mrs. F. G. Blackburn, of the Allegheny Country Club, failed to survive the second round of match play in the annual Florida women's championship golf tournament yesterday. She succumbed to Mrs. W. G. Begg, of Chicago, by 4 and 3 in the third sixteen.

In the championship flight Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, winner of the qualifying medal, is opposing Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, while in the other half of the draw Miss Helen (Billie) Hicks, 17-year-old Long Island schoolgirl, is playing Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, of Highland Park, Ill.

Cardinals, Central Leaguers Confer

AKRON, O., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Representatives of Central League baseball clubs and the St. Louis Cardinals, Louisville and Nashville clubs met here today in an effort to iron out loop difficulties. Whether Akron will remain in the league is to be decided. Manager John McCloskey has been looking for a buyer since Ike Sablosky, of Dallas, offered his interests for sale.

FELDERS BEATEN

The Mangans defeated the Jeannette Felders, 38-18, in a P. & O. League game last night.

JUDGES NEXT OF BIG FIGHT PROBLEMS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21.—(AP.)—The business activities of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, two prominent young heavyweights regained a place in the sun with the smoothing away of the problem of selecting a referee for their engagement here next week.

The furrowed brow of sun-blackened Jack Dempsey, making a troubled debut as a sports promoter, was clearing rapidly as he left for Palm Beach to take part with Babe Ruth in a charity performance last night. The former champion carried a telegram in his pocket from James A. Furley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, granting rugged Lou Magnolia the right to act as referee when the Boston Tar and the Georgian square off in Flamingo Park.

Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, and Pa Stribling, father of the Southern ace, met with Dempsey and adopted the New York Commission rules in general as the governing code. This was necessary since Florida has no boxing commission and no fistic code of its own. Some changes may be made at another meeting Monday when the question of judges will be decided.

PRELIM CARD SET

The preliminary card has been announced. Six four-round preliminaries and an eight-round semi-final will be preceded by a battle royal in which 12 Negroes will fight for a purse provided by Jack Dempsey.

Pairings in the four-rounders are: Mike Firpo, Baltimore, and Rush Heise, Columbus, O., heavyweights; Red Riley, Troy, N. Y., and Abie Bain, Newark, N. J., light-heavyweights; Spike Webb, Orlando, Fla., and Tony Fuente, California, heavyweights; Sully Montgomery, Fort Worth, Tex., and Pat McCarthy, Boston, heavyweights; Big Sid Terris, Miami, and Paul Hoffman, New York, heavyweights. Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, and Johnny Grosso, of New York, will box eight rounds in the semi-final.

An additional four-round match between Baby Stribling, brother of the heavyweight, and Andy Callahan, junior welterweight, from Lawrence, Mass., probably will be cancelled because of a hand injury suffered by Stribling in training.

WILLIAMS TIES RECORD

DETROIT, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Percy Williams, Canada's schoolboy sprinter, added another victory to his collection of triumphs here last night and equaled a 24-year-old record. The slight Canadian was forced to the limit to defeat Eddie Tolan, Negro sprinter from the University of Michigan, but turned the stretch in 4 2-5 seconds, to tie the mark set by William C. Eaton, at Boston in 1905.

The other two members of the wandering track triumvirate, Edvin Wide, of Sweden, and Paavo Nurmi, did what 4,500 persons who came to Olympia Arena expected, but their victories lacked the sparkle of Williams' performance.

Wide made a show of a field of distance runners in a two-mile handicap race, winning in 9:20 6-10. It took him four laps to catch the last of his opponents and from there on to the finish it was just a question of how big a lead he would accumulate. He was 75 yards in front at the finish and did not sprint.

Nurmi's performance in a one and one-half mile event was similar to Wide's. Paavo carried his watch, but his competition was not serious enough to cause him to consult it. He wasted no time in whittling down the handicap of a dozen entrants and finished about a quarter of a lap out in front. He even obliged the cheering crowd by putting on a mild sprint. His time was 6:55 4-10.

ALIQUIPPA BEATEN

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Feb. 21.—The Ambridge High School basketball team handed Harding High of Aliquippa, champion of Section I of the W. P. I. A. L., its first defeat of the season here last night, 22 to 19.

York tomorrow night, and that is that the Akron fighter will not be overtrained. Eastern critics are surprised at the little training done by Christner. The fighter says he has no great affection for the grind and believes that pummeling sparring partners cannot do him any good. "What's the use of working my head off in a gymnasium?" he asks. "I'm always in condition. I take good care of myself, and if I trained too much I'd go stale. Then there is no use trying to perfect my boxing. I simply know one style, and I'll be in there Friday night continually throwing my right, as usual, hoping that one of the swings will connect and put Paulino where I want him."

K. O. Christner.

ASKED if the body beating administered by Sharkey in the last few rounds of their fight had left any ill effects, Christner replied: "Say, that fight with Sharkey was one of the easiest ever. His body blows didn't bother me as much as a good massage. Why, do you know, I never had a rub-down after that fight? I merely hopped under the shower, dressed, and then went out and danced until 3 o'clock in the morning.

If I had been so terribly punished I guess I couldn't have knocked the polish off the dance floors. No, sir, Sharkey didn't hurt me. Not in the stomach, anyhow. I did feel a couple on the chin, but they were far milder than I had expected."

Forbes

What We Owe Our Foremost Individuals And Concerns.

By B. C. FORBES

UNEMPLOYMENT is a very serious problem in Britain and on the continent of Europe. That it is not a serious problem here is due partly to the ability, the daring, the resourcefulness, the initiative, the enterprise and the international breadth and vision of our industrial and financial leaders. Their aggressive invasion of foreign countries is filling a vast number of pay envelopes for American households.

SOME small-minded politicians are never so happy as when they are abusing and harassing American giants bent on doing things on a bigger and bigger scale both at home and abroad.

Happily, the main brains in the American Federation of Labor have a clearer understanding of what the home and foreign activities of our foremost men of affairs mean for the prosperity of the wage earners and others in this country. When they read that this or the next American Napoleon of industry or some strong corporation is investing capital to acquire foreign properties, or to develop foreign distributing facilities, they have vision enough to recognize that American workers will be benefited.

AMERICA'S exports last year for the first time since the post-war boom, reached $5,129,000,000. This was $1,039,000,000 more than we imported, a balance not matched since 1921. We started off this year with exports during January of $491,000,000, the best since 1921 and $120,000,000 above the month's imports. Incidentally Britain's exports last year fell $1,765,000,000 short of her imports. France had $86,240,000 more imports than exports and Germany had $482,000,000.

WHAT can any other country stack up against the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Eastman Kodak, the Remington and Underwood Typewriting companies, National Cash Register, International Harvester, Ford, U. S. Steel Corporation, Swift and Armour and Wilson, American Tobacco, American Express, Borden, Coca Cola, Anaconda Copper, International Telephone and Telegraph, Woolworth, Edison, Singer's, International Shoe, to say nothing of our motion picture corporations?

In international banking, J. P. Morgan & Co. stand head and shoulders above any European firm in influence and in its ramifications, while the National City Bank and several others are now covering the world with branches.

PROFIT, not patriotism is, of course, the main motive animating all these powerful enterprises. But this does not detract from the vital fact that their broad-gauge vision and far-flung operations mean the providing of employment for millions and millions of American breadwinners. And that is no mean contribution to the upbuilding of the nation and the prosperity of its people.

LET us not forget our obligations to them whenever we are moved to find fault with them or when noisy politicians attempt to paint them as enemies of the country.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Despite late rallies because of evening up of accounts so as to minimize risks over the holiday tomorrow, wheat prices here averaged lower today. Another cold wave was expected to spread throughout domestic wheat territory, but thawing weather prevailed in Europe, and Liverpool quotations were depressed by hedging sales against arrivals of wheat from Argentina. Export demand today for North America wheat appeared slack.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stock Prices Advance — Local Market Steady

STEEL CARRIES STOCK LIST UPWARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(AP.)—Heavy buying of the steel shares turned the course of prices upward in today stock market after an early period of irregularity attributed to uncertainties in the credit situation. Trading was fairly heavy for a pre-holiday session, with short covering again playing an important part in the day's operations. Some restraint was apparent because of the meeting of directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank after the close, but the majority of observers looked for no changqe in rate at this time.

Call money renewed at 6½ per cent and was expected to go higher in view of the heavy holiday demands, and the necessity of banks readjusting their positions at the Federal Reserve. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

U. S. Steel common returned to its old role as a market leader by climbing nearly 6 points to 182¼, as against a low of 169 on Monday, on buying based on reports that current operations were around 90 per cent of capacity. Bethlehem moved up to a new high at 96¾.

Adams Express soared 10 points, Allied Chemical 7½, National Tea 6¾. Commercial Solvents and Crosley Radio 6½ and Radio (old stock), National Distillers preferred, American Home Products, Lackawanna Railroad and Advance Rumely common sold 4 to 5½ points higher.

Jersey Central, which changes hands infrequently, broke 30 points below the previous sale. Liquidation also developed in the airplane issues, Curtiss dropping more than 8 points and Wright 3. American and Foreign Power fell back 5 points on the announcement of new stock financing.

Except for the publication of another series of favorable earnings reports, with an unusually good showing by Hupp Motors, there was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Many brokers felt that present rediscount rates would not be disturbed until the effect of higher buying rates on bankers' acceptances outside of New York was determined. Wall street looks for a drop of between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 in brokers' loans, but this estimate may prove high because of the heavy new financing during the past week.

The late rush to buy benefited investment as well as speculative shares, a number of which advanced 3 to 5 points. American Telephone, Canadian Pacific, General Electric, Montgomery-Ward, Chrysler and Mathieson Alkali were among those making best headway. American Railway Express jumped 8 points, National Tea 15 and Adams Express 19. The closing tone was strong. Sales approximated 3,400,000 shares.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The curb market displayed a mixed character in the morning session, weakness caused by pre-holiday selling being offset by persistent buying in a number of important stocks. Gains ranged up to 15 points. Money was in supply and no change in the rate was looked for in banking circles.

Weakness cropped out in the utility group, after an early display of strength, an agitation for controlling legislation which it was thought would interfere with some of the merger plans. American Superpower "A" opened 4 points higher, but quickly dropped back 7 points, while the "B" stock opened at 97¼ for an advance of 12 points and yielded before midday to 88. Electric Bond and Share declined 8 points and the new stock 2, while American Foreign Power warrants rose 4 points to 108¾ and reacted to 101.

Sikorsky Manufacturing Corporation was the feature of airplane and motor groups, advancing 7 points to 46⅞. Ford Motor of Canada jumped 14 points to 661.

Crocker Wheeler was pushed up 15 points to above 249 on reports of a large order from A. M. Byers Company for motors.

The mining issues were mixed, Kennecott (new) dropping a point, Newmont and United Verde Extension climbing a point.

Oils were quiet.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EVENING News and Views SUN-TELEGRAPH New York Bond Market MARKETS

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Steel Leads Sharp Rally.

Stocks whirled up with considerable vigor shortly after noon today when the market was treated to a surprise in a sudden development of buying interest in Steel common. The steel leader changed the complexion of the whole list when it shot up to above 182 as compared with an earlier price of 176¾. The movement was accompanied by reports that one of the strongest pools in the Street had become active on the buying side of Steel and that this pool was convinced that no further unsettlement was likely to result from Federal Reserve efforts to restrict the volume of brokerage credit. Bethlehem followed Steel common on the rise and numerous specialties, among them the so-called Cutten stocks, wheeled into line with gains of from 2 to 5 points from the morning lows. Call money held at 6½ per cent, opening at that figure, as compared with 6½ per cent for renewals yesterday and a charge of 6 per cent for late borrowings in that session. Today's money market contracts carry over until Monday. There was no definite news to account for the strong market this afternoon aside from the rumors of pool activity. It was generally thought, however, that any demonstration in the direction of higher prices would bring in some hurried short-covering and this apparently proved to be the case.

Exchanges Closed Until Monday.

Banks, stock and commodity markets will observe the Washington's Birthday holiday tomorrow, while the stock exchanges and several of the commodity markets will have a special holiday on Saturday, making a three-day suspension of business over the week-end. The Saturday closing in the securities markets follows action of the New York Stock Exchange authorities in ordering that institution closed for the day. Pittsburgh Stock Exchange and other stock exchanges throughout the country took similar action. The Chicago Board of Trade (grain pit) will be open for the usual hours on Saturday. Banks will also be open that day.

Cutten Favorites Strong.

Particular importance was attached to the strength in shares of Westinghouse Electric and Montgomery Ward around midday. These two issues are favorites of Arthur W. Cutten. As a matter of fact, Mr. Cutten, it is said, is still extremely bullish regarding the outlook for 1929. He is keeping his position in his favorite stocks, feeling that higher prices will be seen later on, irrespective of intermediate declines coming out on the credit situation.

TERMINAL COAL OPERATIONS IMPROVED

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation ended 1928 with its operations on a greatly improved basis and with its costs per ton substantially lower than at the end of 1927. In spite of this, the year's business showed a loss of $893,003 after all charges. This compares with a loss of $953,640 in 1927.

Gross income in 1928 was $6,019,143, compared with $5,286,833 in 1927, but the fact that the trend of coal prices was steadily downward during the year made it impossible for a profit to be shown. Operations since January 1, 1929, have continued in the red.

VERY liberal charges were made for depletion during the year. These amounted to $438,644, which was $104,582 in excess of the deduction for depletion permitted by the government for tax purposes. A total of $117,825 was also deducted from earnings for depreciation.

Thus far the coal strike, which was at its height during two very lean years from the standpoint of prices, has been an expensive proposition for the two leaders in the coal industry here.

PITTSBURGH TERMINAL'S total loss in the past two years was $1,846,643. Pittsburgh Coal's loss in the past four years was $5,756,082. It will be recalled that the latter company placed its operations on a non-union basis nearly two years before the expiration of the Jacksonville agreement, while Pittsburgh Terminal Coal waited until its contract with the union had expired.

Although Pittsburgh Coal's operations are far more extensive than Pittsburgh Terminal's, it lost less in 1928, when a deficit of $493,870 was reported. This is attributable to two factors. Earnings from operations other than mining, such as profit from railroad properties, helped Pittsburgh Coal's results. In addition to this the larger company had time to build up its open-shop operations to a more efficient state.

IN COMMENTING on the year's operations, H. T. Wilson, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, said in his remarks to stockholders: "The total tonnage mined by the company from its seven mines during 1928 was 2,623,293 tons, in addition to which 13,937 tons were mined by others under leases.

"Your company's total unmined coal of the Pittsburgh river vein consists of 19,690 acres, the estimated recoverable content being 123,000,000 tons.

"YOUR company's seven mines were operated continuously throughout the year, the operations being conducted by the company, with the exception of mine No. 7, which was operated during the first part of the year by others under a lease, which was terminated in August, 1928, at which time this mine was taken over by the company for operation.

"Through the operation of the sinking fund, 1,360 shares of your company's preferred stock were purchased and retired during the year, leaving 32,387 shares outstanding.

"On January 5, 1928, the company purchased and retired through the sinking fund $400,000 of Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad and Coal Company first-mortgage, 40-year, 5 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, reducing the outstanding bonds to $2,702,000 on December 31."

The Reflection of Progress

MIRRORED in the industry of Pittsburgh is the story of service that brought its growth. This was no overnight development, no sudden springing into a place of manufacturing leadership; but instead, a gradual march to industrial heights, urged on by a desire to render a service in supplying the needs of commerce . . . let prosperity follow.

In the organization of J. H. Holmes and Company there is a reflection of this progress. A hundred and six years have passed since Nathaniel Holmes established his first banking office; and the investment department of his business — now J. H. Holmes and Company — grew with industrial Pittsburgh, ever ready to fulfill the financial banking service required by the men and the corporations whose vision of progress demands the same spirit of service that they, in turn, render to the industrial world.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of Emma Longhenry who died February 21, 1928.

Short and sudden was the call
Of our dearest Emma, loved by all,
The blow was great, the shock severe;
We little thought her death so near.
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
We loved you well, but Jesus loved you best.

Easily missed by parents, brothers and sisters.

A Home With All That the Name Implies

Living in a home like this will indeed be a pleasure. It embodies the beauty of the old world in its tasteful English exterior with the ultra-modern in its expertly arranged and appointed interior. Nothing has been neglected—nothing has been omitted which would detract one iota from the comfort and satisfaction of the owner. Caste Bros., the builders, are to be commended for their fine work. In short, it is a house of which anyone might well be proud.

The following are a few of the features which make the house a thing of enduring beauty and perennial satisfaction. The house itself is built of sandstone furnished by the Buff Mountain Stone Co. The foundation is made of limestone blocks. The slate roof and sheet metal work was furnished and done by Nebo Bros. The light structural steel used in the construction was supplied by Frank H. Robinson, Inc. Another important item is the bronze screens, which are the most endureing known. The garage is most convenient. A door opens, from the rear hall, into the spacious steam-heated garage, equipped with Overhead doors. Pittsburgh Incinerators make the house even more up to date. The heat is supplied by a Dunham Vapor Heating system with B-Line boilers. The kitchen has built-in fixtures and cupboards. Beveled plate glass mirrors were furnished by the Birmingham Mirror Co. The interior and exterior decorating was done by Tasillo Bros., using Standard Plate Paints. Space does not permit mentioning other items of interest to the prospective purchaser. But these few will give you some idea of the quality of the material which was used and the reputation of the contractors who used them. It is your guarantee that everything is "right." But the best way to get an idea of the beauty and utility of this fine house is to come and see it for yourself. Drive out and have a look at it. Representative on premises every day.

THE PRICE WILL PLEASE YOU. THE TERMS WILL ATTRACT YOU.

I'D GIVE TEN SMACKERS TO KNOW WHO STARTED ALL THOSE DIZZY STORIES ABOUT ME.
WELL I DON'T WANT TO GET MIXED UP IN THIS THING ONE WAY OR ANOTHER GEORGE. ALL I KNOW IS THAT BEING HIT ON THE HEAD BY THAT AUTO AND THEN STARTING THIS RAISING POLYWOGS OR WHATEVER YOU'RE GOING IN FOR STARTED PEOPLE THINKING, ESPECIALLY YOUR FRIENDS.
BEING HIT ON THE HEAD HAD ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO DO WITH MY RAISING GUINEA-PIGS. DO I TALK AS THOUGH I WAS CUCKOO?
WELL LIKE I SAY, GEORGE, I'M NOT GOING TO SAY ANYTHING ONE WAY OR ANOTHER. IN FACT WHEN SOME OF THE BOYS AT THE LODGE WERE GOING TO HAVE A COMMITTEE SORT OF INVESTIGATE.....WELL .....EVERYTHING, I TALKED THEM INTO WAITING AWHILE.
I KNOW ALL ABOUT THAT LODGE STUFF! WILLETT ROE BROUGHT THE LODGE DOCTOR UP TO SEE ME LAST NIGHT
HE'S A REAL DOCTOR TOO. I HAD A BROTHER-IN-LAW WHO FELL OUT OF A HIGH-CHAIR WHEN VERY YOUNG. 30 YEARS LATER HE STARTED TALKING ABOUT A PROCESS FOR TANNING ANGLE WORMS AND SELLING 'EM FOR SHOELACES. IN THREE WEEKS THIS LODGE DOC HAD HIM BACK ON HIS FEET.
YESSIR HE'S A REAL DOC.

Mr. Sheldon, physicist, declares Einstein's latest discovery opens the way to defy gravity—and permit stepping out of a window without fear of falling.

Someone will probably start things right off by holding a marathon suspension contest.

This is Walrus Doakes, somnambulist, who announces he will bring suit against Dr. Sheldon and Prof. Einstein. Doakes declares he merely wants credit, in the eyes of the world, for his experiments in stepping out windows without fear of falling.

BALLAD

Charged with shooting his roommate, Astaluba Hoke, teamster, is in jail, and Oscar Wier is near death in the receiving hospital. Hoke had purchased a new pair of yellow shoes. Yesterday morning he found them filled with water—and accused Wier of the prank. Hoke grew sullen, seized a gun and shot his friend in the abdomen.—News Item.

Listen, mister, if you wanta hear
The sad, sad story of Oscar Wier.
He tried for to play a whimsical joke
On his fellow worker, Astaluba Hoke.
Astaluba took a gattling gun
And rang down the curtain on Oscar's fun.
And surely there's a moral in this hullabaloo.
Never pour water in a teamster's shoe.

A Busy Day With the Adair Fire Boys

(Adair County, Ia., News)

The fire was just getting nicely started and the alarm turned in, but on account of the chemical tanks being frozen up and the fireboys were unable to use it, a string of hose was laid from the hydrant west to the station, but when the water was turned on it was found the hose was also frozen and it was a long time before water could be forced through it. A second string of hose was laid from the corner, but this hose was also frozen up, and then a third string was laid, which was in fairly good shape except one section, and when this was removed there was plenty of water, but the building was practically burned to the ground.

The fire started from a pan of grease catching fire on the gas stove. Mr. Lally had gone into the lunch room to make a sandwich for a customer, and just after he lit the gas stove a car drove up to the filling station and he set the pan of grease on the stove to get hot while he was waiting on the customer at the station.

He had only been there a few moments when the gas tank on the stove exploded. What happened after this is told of above.

Senate Should Reject Lenroot Because of His Service to Power Trust

Just why President Coolidge has nominated former Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin, to the United States Court of Customs Appeals, Congress and the country may well ask.

But there is no doubt about the duty of the Senate in the premises. The Senate should reject this nomination upon the ground that Mr. Lenroot's high salaried services as an attorney for the power trust render him ineligible for membership on a judicial tribunal of great power, responsibility and distinction.

As a lawyer for the power trust, at a salary of $20,000 a year, after Wisconsin retired him from the Senate, Mr. Lenroot appears to have taken a prominent part in the defeat of the Walsh resolution for a senatorial investigation of Mr. Lenroot's client.

It is true that the Federal Trade Commission made a most thorough inquiry into the machinations of that trust, but that was not all due to the efforts of Mr. Lenroot. That was due to the fidelity with which that commission served its client—the American people. That was in spite of what Mr. Lenroot tried to do for his client—the power trust.

When Charles Beecher Warren, of Michigan, was nominated for attorney general, the Senate properly refused to confirm him because of his legal services to another trust.

From the same high sense of duty, the Senate, and for much the same reason, should follow the same course in dealing with the nomination of Mr. Lenroot and refuse to confirm him.

No false sense of "senatorial courtesy," no "stand-by-the-President" sentimentality, no petty partisan politics should blind the Senate to its duty. From the prompt and fearless performance of that duty in disposing of an unsuitable nomination to the Court of Customs Appeals, the Senate must not flinch.

United Palestine Appeal Is Worthy of Our Help

Jews of Pittsburgh are engaged in a campaign to raise $125,000 in what is called the United Palestine Appeal. The sum sought is their quota of $5,000,000 which the Jewish people of America seek to provide for the work Jews of the world are doing in their ancient homeland—Palestine. The territory embraced in the local drive includes the tri-state district of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Next to the love of home the love of native land is the strongest, and through the ages the Jew, born in Russia, Germany, Spain, England and America, has always felt that Palestine should receive a share of the affection he gives to the land of his birth. And among those born in lands where the Jew has been persecuted and driven out his patriotic leaning has been toward the land that he has adopted. But always has been with him the thought that Palestine belonged to his race and belonged in the hearts of those who sprang from that great people.

So there the Jews are engaged in establishing a nation. There they are settling immigrants upon the land of their illustrious forefathers. There the Jews, scattered for 2,000 years, are erecting a monument to civilization in establishing a national home for Jewish people. This means more than connecting the agriculturalist with the land. It even means training the man to be an agriculturist. It means many things related to modern existence, such as the maintenance of schools, hospitals, building, etc., but the basis of it all is the colonization of the Jew in his own country.

Imagination can conceive of no stronger call than that from home. Should we not help our Jewish friends, who hear that call? They will not solicit us, but surely they will not refuse a friendly voluntary contribution. The headquarters is 414 Smithfield street and the treasurer is Charles J. Rosenbloom. Many prominent Pittsburgh residents are members of the local committees in charge of the work.

Books for Public Use Judge Miller Memorial

An instance of a worthy action that contains not only its own merit but an excellent suggestion to those who would like to do something worth while is the gift of a fund to purchase books as a memorial to the late Judge J. J. Miller. The fund, from judges of the Common Pleas Court, is placed at the disposal of the Carnegie Library for the purchase of books on the history of Pennsylvania Germans, that is the pioneer stock familiarly known as the Pennsylvania "Dutch." These volumes are to be placed in the Pennsylvania history room and will be marked by a special book plate in memory of Judge Miller.

It is a commendable way the donors of this fund have taken to pay a tribute to their learned friend and co-jurist. It is a way that enshrines the one memorialized and at the same time benefits the people. It is a gift of a library of limited size but of unlimited value, since the worth of a book is immeasurable.

There are a number of memorial book collections in Carnegie Library. There could be no better way to remember a relative or friend.

Aunty's Rather Heavy Handed

By Nelson Harding

Tales That Are Told

Perhaps He Was Right

A SCHOOLMASTER, attempting to teach a class of boys the composition of sentences, said to them: "If I ask you, 'What have I in my hand?' you must not answer, 'Chalk,' but compose a complete sentence, such as 'You have a piece of chalk in your hand.' Now we will continue. What have I on my feet?"

"Boots," was the immediate answer.

"Wrong! You haven't listened to my directions."

'Shoes!" came the next suggestion.

"You're quite wrong," said the teacher; "guess again!"

'Stockings!"

"No, no! Try again!"

'Socks!'

'Wrong again; worse than ever!" protested the teacher.

"Well?" as another pupil raised his hand.

"Please, sir!" Then he paused. Perhaps he thought his answer might seem funny, but, convinced that it was right, he blurted, recklessly: "Corns!"

Turning the Tables

HE had been out of work for a long time, but eventually he secured a position as bus conductor.

On the morning of his first day's duty the bus had gone a few miles when an inspector boarded it. The latter was surprised to find the vehicle empty, but the conductor explained that it had not stopped once since leaving the depot.

"Has nobody tried to stop your bus?" the inspector asked.

"No, sir."

"Nobody put up their hand to you?"

"Oh, yes," returned the other, "there's been a lot of folk wavin' to me at various corners, but I ignored 'em. They wouldn't speak to me when I was out o' work."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

WHENEVER the girls in some offices ain't busy, they spend their time fixing up their nails and putting some more stuff on their faces and sewing up the runs in their stockings. There was a stenographer that kinda overdid it a little, and the proprietor of the joint says to her one day, "See here, Miss Thingus, you're a good enough stenographer and all that, but it gives me pain to see you wasting so much time prettying yourself up."

"It ain't as wasted as you think," she says right smart back at him. "I done better than you have this year. I'm engaged to your best customer, and he makes twice as much as you do."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

RESTLESS folk—

The world is full of them.

Here's a little co-ed with the fidgets, and she wonders what she can do about it.

Dear Elsie:

Will you please give me a GOOD sermon?

I'm so disgusted today with myself that I can't see straight. Everything's the matter with me. Here I am at college and the most restless creature that ever roved the earth. Will you please tell me what to do about it? THANK YOU.

Restless?

What'll you do?

THANK GOD YOU ARE!

I mean that seriously. Thank God that He has put so much energy and curiosity into your frame and that you're not content to snuggle down like a "bug in a rug," but must always be rarin' to go.

PRAY THAT HE WILL KEEP YOU THAT WAY!

PRAY THAT YOU MAY ALWAYS KNOW ENOUGH DISCONTENT TO KEEP YOU STRIVING FOR NEW FORMS OF EXPRESSION—

The great people in history have always been restless people, discontented people, often very unhappy people.

Sometimes their bodies seemed placid enough but always they were mentally on the fidget. Always they were reaching out for something more—throwing themselves against the bars that bound them.

Every great contribution to human treasure came through someone's restlessness—came because someone wasn't satisfied with the world as it is.

BE RESTLESS!

BE INTELLIGENTLY RESTLESS!

Don't pass up the good which you may get from your present situation. Squeeze all you can out of each experience before you cast it aside.

BUT KEEP ON THE MOVE—

AND WELCOME THAT ITCH WITHIN YOU WHICH KEEPS YOU ON THE MOVE.

Ask not for an easy life—a placid life, a contented life.

ASK FOR MORE LIFE, AND, WHATEVER THE PRICE, PAY IT LIKE A GOOD SPORT!

SPACE DIMENSIONS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"WHY talk of 'three dimensions' of space? Hasn't space an infinite number of dimensions, or directions of extensions?"

This is the gist of a number of inquiries started by the puzzle of the fourth dimension. I think that we can get at the origin of the idea of space being limited to three dimensions in this way

Consider, with the aid of the picture, how a point stretches into a line, a line expands into a surface, and a surface swells into a volume. Each dimension extends at right angles to its generator. There is no other dimension apparent beyond the three.

Now, the origin of the idea of three limiting dimensions will be plain if you start again with the point, and, instead of counting attention to its stretching out endwise into a line, consider it to expand on every side, at once, i. e., to swell immediately into a volume occupying what we call cubical space, which does not mean that the form is necessarily that of a cube, but only that it extends in the three primary directions.

If you analyze the elements of the expansion of the point by swelling outwards of all sides to become a volume or bulk, you will perceive that they are all comprised in the three primary dimensions, or directions of extension. Our picture is a graphic representation of this analysis. It is perfectly evident that only the three successive extensions there shown are necessary, and that nothing else is involved in the supposed process by which the point passes directly by simultaneously in all three directions into a solid volume, whether the shape be that of a cube, a sphere, or any other form.

The principle of this analysis has been often used of late in attempts to "hand over" to common sense the idea of a fourth dimension. This was first done, and best done, many years ago in a little book called "Flatland"—now, I think, out of print. A being is imagined to live at first in "point-land," where it is assumed that no idea of extension can exist. Then he is transported to "line-land," where he can conceive only of extension in a straight line; anything crossing the line being to him pure miracle and as incomprehensible as a ghost. From "line-land" he is taken to "flat-land," where he can comprehend no up or down, but only flat surface extension. For anything to enter his world from above or below would be to violate all that he knows of nature; in a word, it would seem to him impossible, except through some supernatural miracle. If he were as dry as the flatness of his world would indicate, and if, nevertheless, he caught a bootlegger entering his domain from the three-dimension world, he would think he had safely imprisoned the offender by putting him into a square prison without top or bottom. And the escape of the bootlegger into the third dimension would appear to the poor flatlander to be the magic of the "drink-devil."

Since Einstein's theory has bloomed, this flat-land fantasy is frequently appealed to as if it offered a proof that a fourth dimension may exist because, if it did, we could not understand it! As well argue that Alice's adventures in Wonderland are proof that whatever the imagination invents must be so.

Bible Passages

Judgments on the Land

(Isaiah 24; 16-23)

FROM the uttermost part of the earth have we heard songs, even glory to the righteous. But I said, My leanness, my leanness, woe unto me! the treacherous dealers have dealt treacherously; yea, the treacherous dealers have dealt very treacherously.

Fear, and the pit, and the snare, are upon thee, O inhabitant of the earth.

And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the noise of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit shall be taken in the snare for the windows from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth do shake.

The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is clean dissolved, the earth is moved exceedingly.

The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, and shall be removed like a cottage; and the transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall punish the host of the high ones that are on high, and the kings of the earth upon the earth.

And they shall be gathered together, as prisoners are gathered in the pit, and shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be visited.

Then the moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the Lord of hosts shall reign in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Pool of Stars

WOULD that my life might be a pool
Where stars reflected lie;
Bright, tranquil waters, clear and cool,
That glimpse the sky.

However tall the pines might lift
Their boughs on every side,
It still could see white stars adrift
On heaven's tide.

However dim the forest ways
Where thick the shades unfold,
The pool could watch proud Saturn's blaze,
A gleam of gold.

And, wheeling high, in splendor see
The shining warrior, Mars—
Would that my life a pool might be,
To mirror stars,

Though barriers dark and tall might rise
To mock and stifle me,
A glimpse of heaven's immensities
Would set me free!

The Prince and the Paupers

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Prince of Wales has been visiting King Coal's country. Hunger, cold and despair escorted him through squalid towns, where empty cupboards and bare feet marked the last stages of resistance against four years' battle with starvation.

Death brushed his elbows more than once on cottage lintels. He watched grief tear the mask from stricken households—and looked on the raw hearts of bereft subjects.

A strange and new experience for his kind. Past centuries spared aristocracy such disturbing sights. Royalty's exquisite senses were not so upset by reality.

When Catherine the Great journeyed the land, thoughtful ministers built gay, pretty villages along the route, to hide the mires and human pigsties behind these false fronts—so as not to muddy majesty's gaze. Russian courtiers went Raleigh one better. He merely spread a cloak for Elizabeth's feet.

But times are somewhat changed—for Russia and for England

Colliers, who have not earned a living wage since 1925, poured their grim stories into Wales' aching ears. No jobs—no funds—except the miserable dole, which holds taskless millions from total destitution

The Prince rose from a sick bed to face a national duty. What he saw has made him a sicker man.

He can do nothing—Parliament, little more Economics rule the situation. The Law of Supply and Demand controls mine output, and paralyzes an industry which may no longer compete with German reparation deliveries, the Continent's own fuel fields, and the substitution of oil.

Incessant strikes and high-handedness have finally borne their destined fruit.

While British production waited upon tie-ups and lockouts, trade turned to other sources, and weaned itself of dependence on traditional stocks.

The future is increasingly pledged to Diesel engines, gasoline power and kerosene burners. Domestic consumption, including the tonnage for John Bull's railroads, can never restore the balance.

Just one more of the chips-and-sawdust piles Progress callously leaves behind, as revised practice sweeps the earth.

Civilization devours one group and feeds the fortunes of the next. When old order and new collide, the less competent system must suffer.

King Coal is simply getting a taste of his own medicine.

Midland memories still picture the havoc steam left in its triumphant wake, when hand-looms disappeared before machinery.

History runs in circles—so do the statesmen dealing with this stark problem.

The Prince can't pull miracles, either. But he has agreed to set up a few families as flower raisers in the Scilly Isles.

They cried for bread—and he tenders a nosegay.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—There are at least a dozen Mephistophelean worldlings in New York whose careers are devoted to marrying young and rich girls who—if they study their tabloids—should know better. The Romeos are middle-aged roues with the glamour of many successful conquests.

They are well educated and generally have a small allowance from an entailed estate, which they balloon into proportions of millions despite the army of creditors continually camping on the doorstep. They are gleaners along the society trail from Palm Beach to the Riviera and back again.

Most of them pose as artists or writers, but with small standing in either field. Outside of their technique in amatory affairs, they are proficient only in sartorial smartness, smoking cigarets and punishing cocktails. And are a perfect pattern of the small town notion of a city slicker.

They have married four or five times before they reach 50, but are always ready for another paying romp to the altar. Their wives are invariably the vibrant and beautiful creatures upholstered in the select and fashionable finishing schools here and in Europe.

And the gallants with hand kissing manners make the average clean living young fellow trying to get a toe hold in the world appear as awkward as a clod hopper. Every moment they are at their polished best. Love making is not a romance, but a business.

For a time after matrimony they become the most abject of husbandly slaves—the careful chair fixers, daily orchid providers, with all the other well-bred gestures of their sinister roles. In this manner they manage to get a grip on the wifely bank roll.

Then they begin their philandering until the complications force the victims to parental shelter and the usual Reno-vation. But somehow their cast-off wives always remain their friends—slipping them a check now and then. The disillusionment does not make them forget they were "wonderful lovers."

Food prices continue their Brodie. Two restaurants on Fifth avenue now offer plate dinners at 50 cents.

Walking along the Bowery the other evening, a band of salvationists were singing hymns a few steps from what was once the most terrible dive in America—McGurk's Suicide Hall. In the halcyon days it was a larger beer and concert parlor whither lost and forlorn ladies crept to pour carbolic acid in their beer and fall to the floor with faces wreathed in sardonic and agonizing grins. Suicide Hall had a record of 27 suicides among its soiled sisterhood. It also had a bouncer who was one of the most ferocious gangsters the East Side ever bred—"Eat-Em-Up" Jack McManus, who could snip off an ear with a single iron-jawed clip. But, like the rest of his clan, he died as he lived, by the gun.

It is a dramatic story bruited about the Tenderloin. She was a sacrificial figure in a famous murder trial. Not long ago in her cups she met a reporter who had covered the miserable ordeal she suffered. She beckoned him to her table. "Listen," she said, "I have always wanted to tell you that out of my terribly misspent life the thing I have regretted most is that as a witness I had to slander the memory of the only man in the world who ever treated me as a gentleman."

It is guaranteed for eight years and is kept perpetually ticking by the movement of the wearer's arm. It is a set-back to those of us who fell heir to a snap hunting case watch with a winder as big as the front door key to a boarding house.

During formative years in the city, I carried a watch with the winder dangling to the chain. Invariably it inspired those sinister giggles suggesting pantaloons had slipped their moorings or something. There are two things you have to give up in the city—the hunting case watch and long underwear.

And a Madison avenue haberdasher is showing underwear for gentlemen in pink and lavender tints with cut out monograms on the hip. O, ginger cookies!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU hesitate about buying a home or making an investment you know you should, because it would limit your spending money.

Isn't it this thought, rather than that you might not be able to meet the installments, that keeps you from assuming the responsibility?

You are able to meet all your desires, to a certain extent, by using practically all of your income.

For years you have kept this up.

Paid hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars in rent.

All you have to show for it are your receipts.

If you had paid for a house as rent, you might have had a large equity in it or possibly all of it paid for by now.

Will it ever be possible for you to pay cash for a home at your present way of living?

Isn't the installment plan the only way for you?

As you grow older you will find that not owning a home will worry you.

If you wait too long it may be too late for you safely to obligate yourself with the burden of paying for a home.

Better start at once.

The longer you put it off the harder it will be to convince yourself you should buy a home.
